conversation. There is a possibility that those of the mob who are known will be indicted by the grand jury.

State's Attorney S. G. Wilson is much opposed to lynch law, and has taken a more decided stand in censuring the mob than any other prominent citizen of Danville. He said today: "If the grand jury indicts the lynchers, you can rest assured that I will prosecute them vigorously and fearlessly. The matter will be brought before the grand jury. What action it will take I, of course, am unable to say. I believe in following the law in every case. Last summer some citizens complained that Danville was overrum with mobs of striking coal miners. I do not see any difference between a mob of poor coal miners and one of rich farmers."

The people will pay the damages done to the County Jail. The amount will be raised by voluntary subscription: The damage will not exceed $300. Miss Barnett's condition is improved, and it is expected that she will be removed to her father's home in Indianola in a few days. The action of the lynchers meets with her approval. Room 1.

INCIDENTS AT THE DEATH BED. WASHINGTON. Max. 28.—Secretary Gresham died at 1:15 o'clock this morning at his rooms at the Arlington House. Al-though his recovery was practically aban-doned when his spell occurred shortly before 6 o'clock last evening, the most pow-erful heart stimulants known to medical science were injected periodically, and an infusion of normal saline solution way made through an open vein in the arm He recovered slightly, but owing to seven rigors shortly before 11 o'clock, he began to fail rapidly and his vitality began to ebb. The three physicians saw that the end was near, and at 12 o'clock withdrew to the ante-room, leaving in the sickroom only the members of his family and the

No arrangements will be made for the funeral until the arrival of his son today. Mrs. Gresham's devotion to her husband during his iliness has been of the most tender, patient and faithful character. She seemed determined to fight off death. "If he dies," she said many times, "I fose all." The utmost persuasion was required to induce her to even lie down. Yesterday she grew so faint from exhaustion that she reeled and would have fallen had not one of the nurses caught her in her arms.

THE FATAL ILLNESS.

Mr. Gresham's illness began May 1, when he was attacked with acute pleurisy. The physicians diagnosed his case as gallstone in the bladder at first, his pleurisy symptoms being overlooked for almost thirty-six hours. As soon as Dr. W. W. Johnson, who has since been the attending physician, was called, he discovered that the Secretary was suffering from an acute case of pleurisy, probably caused by.ex, posure while riding out to Woodley, the President's country home, at night. Meantime the gall-stone had passed. The Secretary's right lung was affected, the cavity being already filled with pleuritic fluid. His respiration rose to 43. The physicians decided not to tap the cavity, but to rely upon absorption to rid it of the exuded fluid. Gradually Secretary Gresham grewbetter. The respiration was reduced to almost normal.

Last Saturday, when Dr. Johnson thought all danger past, the left lung suddenly became affected and filled rapidly. Since then either Dr. Johnson or the consulting physician has been at his bedside constantly, as have Mrs. Gresham and the Secretary's son-in-law, Mr. Andrews. He passed a very bad night on Saturday and a bad day Sunday, suffering so much pain that last night he was placed under the influence of opiates. He was kept more or less under their influence all day. His long illness had weakened the Secretary greatly and his physicians decided that in his exhausted condition he could not undergo an operation for the removal of the fluid. The fact that the Secretary bas had stomach trouble for years and has been obliged to diet, militated against any rapid recovery of strength. Secretary Gresham had an attack of pleurisy years ago. Restoratives were applied and hypodermic injections of nitro-glycerine, the most powerful of all heart stimulants, and strychnine were made. His bloodvessels were in a state of collapse and his condition was so extremely critical that the physicians decided that transfusion was immedately necessary to stimulate the heart. Dr. Ranssaeller, an expert surgeon and son-in-law of Dr. Johnson, was hastily sent for. He opened a vein in the left arm and infused a pint and a haif of normal saline solution. mai seline solution. The operation was successful and about 9 o'clock the stricken statesman had revived somewhat. PRESIDENT CLEVELAND INQUIRES. The news which came later that Secretary Gresham was dying aproad like wildfire through the city, and public officials and friends of the Secretary called at the hotal by the score and asked anxiously for information.

President Cleveland, who was at Woodley, was telephoned to and kept constantly informed as to his premier's condition. He, too, has been confined to his room, it is said, for two days by a billious attack. He sent in word that if it was possible for him to see the Secretary or to be of any assistance he would be glad to come in, but the physicians stated that it would be impossible for the Secretary to see anyone and he therefore decided to remain at Woodley.

The Secretary lay in one of a suite of rooms on the ground floor of the Arlington Hotel. At his hedside were Mrs. Gresham, his daughter, Mrs. E. F. Andrews of Chicago, and his son-in-law, Mr. Andrews, the nurses and physicians. Secretary Lamont and First Assistant-Postmaster-General Jones, Assistant Secretary of State Uhl. Chief Justice Fuller, Col. Corbin and Capt. Fuller of the army remained in Parlor A. connected with the Secretary's suite, receiving such persons as were admitted and answering inquiries. Among those who called were the Chinese Minister and his secretary Hamilin and Secretary Carlisie. Comptroller Eckels, Justice Harlan. Senator Gorman of Maryland, and Dr. Guzman, the Nicaraguan Minister.

Secretary Gresham was conseious almost the entire evening. Many times he inquired for his son, Otto, who is en the way from Oalo. Meanwhile the anxious watchers at the bedside about 9:20 o'clock saw the giant frame of the Secretary convulsed by a severe chil. He sank rapidly, but the chill passed away and he recovered slightly, and then dozed for a few minutes. The physicians continued to give hypodermic injections of nitroglycer. At 11:30 o'clock he suffered another rigor. At 11:30 o'clock Secretary Herbort came to the hotel. He had arrived in Washington about 8:30 o'clock, bastening at once to join the little parry of watchers. By midnight the signs of disrolution were crowding thick and fast. The members of the Secretary's family who had been excluded earlier in the evening from a fear that their presence might arouse the apprehension of the dying man, had been admitted, for it was plain that Secretary Gresham fully realized his position and deven conversed caimly with those about him, but as the midnight hour drew near, the waning forces of life were no longer equal to the effort and he sank into silence. Although alms: pulseless and without signs of life otherwise, his eyes still showed the gleam of intelligence and appreciation of what was going on around him, and the watchers waited in silent agony of spirit for the going out of life.

Sketch of His Life.

Sketch of His Life.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Walter Quinton Gresham was a soldier, a judge and a statesman prominent in those three great fields of human endeavor. He rose to the rank of major-general of volunteers during the rebellion. He was for fourteen years United States Circuit Judge for Illinois and held three Cabinet portfolios, Postmaster-General and Secretary of the Treasury under Arthur and Secretary of State under Mr. Cleveland.

Mr. Gresham came of English stock. His ancestors moved to Virginia and later to Harrison county. Indiana, where he was born on St. Patrick's day, 1832. In 1833 Mr. Gresham's father was elected sheriff and in the next year was murdered by a noted desperado whom he had gone to arrest. The mother of Walter Q. was left a widow with five small children. He was then but 2 years old. He grew up with but two or three winter's schooling, until he was 16 years of age. By dint of hard work and the assistance of. his brother, he succeeded in entering the seminary at Corydon.

Two years there and he went to Bloomington University and completed his education, so far as schooling was concerned. He took up the law. In 1855 the Republican party was formed and with it the first shriek of war was sounded. Gov. Morton appointed him lieutenant of the Unanimous Decision of the Supreme Court.

Uncle Sam Has Power to Invoke Judicial Aid to Preserve Freedom of Commerce

Points of Justice Brewer's Opinion-Importance of the Case-No Impotency in the National Government.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The United WASHINDTON, May 27.—The Cantel States Supreme Court today denied the application of Eugene V. Debs, the strike leader, for a writ of habeas corpus. This is a victory for the government. No more important question, with the single exception of the income tax, has come beexception of the income tax, has come be-fore the Supreme Court during the past year than the attempt of Debs and other officers of the American Railway Union to secure the reversal of their sentences to jail by Judge Woods for interfering with interstate commerce and the running of mails in the great railway strike of last mails in the great railway strike of last summer.

The decision of the court was read by Justice Brewer, and was unanimous, there being no dissenting opinion. All contentions of the government were sustained. The conclusions of the court were that the government of the United States has jurisdiction over every foot of soil, and over every individual within the boundaries of the United States, and that, while it was of Himited powers, it had sovereignity within those limitations. It has power to invoke a civil court to remove obstructions to interstate commerce and civil courts have a right to enjoin those who make obstructions to such commerce. The Circuit Court having final jurisdiction, its act was not reviewable by the Supreme Court on petition for a writ of habeas corpus, and therefore the writ was denied.

Supreme Court on petition for a writ of habeas corpus, and therefore the writ was denied.

The case has importance beyond the question of imprisonment of A.R.U. officials, as there is largely involved the principle of the judges having jurisdiction of large interests by virtue of receiverships created by them to prevent labor troubles through the instrumentuality of injunctions. Nearly one-shird of the railway property of the United States being in the hands of receivers appointed by Federal courts, the precedent to be established has wide application. Technically, the application for writ of habeas corpus and certificant insess from the case in equity of the Union Trust Company against the Atohison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, since the receivership under which the Circuit Court exercised jurisdiction over the Santa Fe and its allied roads created in the case.

On the 2d of July, 1894, when the great railway strike was threatened, the receivers applied to Judge Wood of the Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois for an injunction against the A.R.U. to prevent it from inciting the employees to strike. Judge Woods signed the paper presented, which was a sweeping one, enjoining the officers of the union from interfering with the malls or interstate commerce, or from destroying property or compelling or inducing the employees of the road to strike by violence or intimidation or from aiding or abetting them to do any of these things.

the employees of the road to strike by violence or intimidation or from aiding or abetting them to do any of these things.

The A.R.U. declared a strike on the Illinois Central Railroad, one of those included in the injunction, and the events of that strike are matters of general knowledge. The officers of the union were brought before Judge Woods for contempt of court last December. E. V. Debs, the president, was sentenced to six months in jail and seven others, G. W. Howard, Sylvester Keilher, L. W. Rogers, James Hogan, William E. Burns, Roy M. Goodwin and Martin J. Elliott, were sentenced to three months. It appears that the into three months. It appears that the in-junction had been personally served on the first four officers, but Judge Woods held that its publication in the newspation etablished the great postoffice system of the country with all its detail of organization, its machinery for the transaction of business defining what shall be carried and what not, and the price of carried and what not an analous for all offenses against it. Obviously these powers given to the national government over interactae commerce and in respect to the transportation of these two matters and by various and specific acts had assumed and exercised the powers given it and was in full discharge of its duty to regulate interstate commerce and carry the mails.

"If the inhabitants of a single State, or a great body of them, should combine to obstruct interstate commerce or the transportation of the mails, prosecutions of such offenses had in such a community would be doomed in advance to failure. And if the certainty of such failure was known and the national government had no other way to enforce the freedom of interestate commerce and the transportation of mails in by grossecution and punishment for inte ference therewith, the whole interests of the nation in these respects would be at the absolute mercy of a portion of the inhabitants of a single State.

"But there is no such impotency in the national government."

of a portion of the inhabitants of a single State.

"But there is no such impotency in the national government. The entire strength of the nation may be used to enforce in any part of the land the full and free exercise of all national powers and the security of all rights, intrusted by the Constitution to its care. The strong administration of the nation may be put forth to brush sway all obstructions to the freedom of interstate commerce or the transportation of the mails. If emergency arises, the army of the nation and all its militial are at the service of the nation to commerced challence to the laws.

tion of the malls. If emergency arises, the army of the nation and all its militia are at the service of the nation to compel obedience to the laws.

"In the case before us the right to use force does not exclude the right of appeal to the courts for a judicial determination and for the exercise of all their powers of prevention. Indeed, it is more to the praise than to the blame of the avvernment that, instead of determining for itself questions of right and wrong on the part of these petitioners and their associates, and enforcing that determination by the club of the policeman and the bayonet of the soldier, it submitted all those questions to the determination of judicial tribunals, and invoked their consideration and judgment as to the measure of its rights and powers and the co-relative obligations of those against whom it made compilaint. And it is equally to the credit of the latter that the judgment of those rights and powers and interest in the subject matter as enables it to appear as party plaintiff in the suit, it is said that equity only interferes for the protection of property interests. A afficient reply is that the United States has a property in the mails, the protection of which was one of the purposes of this trial."

"That the bill filed in this case disclosed special facts calling for the exercise of the powers of the court is not open to question. The picture drawn in it of the vast interests involved, not merely of the city of Chicago, and of the State of Illinois, but of all the States and the general confusion into which the interstate commerce of the country was thrown through forcible interference with that commerce; the attempted exercise by individuals of powers belonging only to the government, and threatened continuance of such invasions of public rights, presents a condition of things which called for the fullest exercise of all the powers of the court. If ever there was a special exigency presented, one which demanded that the court should do all that courts can do, it is apparent on the face of this bill, and we need not turn to the public history of the day, which only reaffirms with emphasis all its allegations.

"The difference between a public nulsance and a private nuisance is that one affects the people at large, and the other simply the individual. The quality of the wrong is the same and the jurisdiction of the courts over them rests upon the same principles and goes to the same extent. The argument in opposition does not question the jurisdiction of the court the only the expediency of the action of the courts over them rests upon the same principles and goes to the same extent. ful and anxious attention, for we realize that it touches closely questions of supreme importance to the people of this country. Summing up our conclusions we hold that the government of the United States is one having jurisdiction over every foot of soil within its territory and acting directly upon each citizen; that while it is a government of enumerated powers all the attributes of sovereignty; that to it is committed power over interstate commerce and the transmission of the mail; that the powers thus conferred upon the hatten of the powers all the powers thus conferred upon the hatten government are not dormant, but have been assumed and put into practical exercise by legislation of Congress; that in the exercise of those powers it is competent for a nation to remove all designs. in the exercise of those powers it is competent for a nation to remove all obstructions upon highways, natural or artificial, to the passage of interstate commerce or the carrying of the mail; that while it may be competent for the government (through the executive branch and in the use of the entire executive power of the nation) to foreibly remove all such obstructions. It is equally within its competency to appeal to the civil courts for an insuriry and determination, as to the existence and character of any alleged obstructions, and if such are found to exist or threaten to occur, to invoke the powers of those caurts to remove or restrain such obstacles; that the juriediction of courts to interfere in such matters by injunction is one recognized from ancient times and by undoubtable authority; that such jurisdiction is not ousted by the fact that the obstructions are accompanied by or consist of acts in themselves violations of by undoubtable authority; that such jurisdiction is not ousted by the fact that such obstructions are accompanied by or consist of acts in themselves violations of the criminal laws; that the proceeding by injunction is of a civil character, and may be enforced by proceedings in contemplation; that the penalty for such a violation of such injunction is no substitute for and no defense to a prosecution for any criminal offense committed in the course of such violation; that the complaint filed in this base showed clearly an existing obstruction of artificial highways for the passage of interstate commerce and the transmission of mails, an obstruction not only temporarily existing, but threatening to continue; that under such complaint the Circuit Court had power to issue its process of injunction; that it having been issued and served on defendants, the Circuit Court has authority to inquire whether its orders had been disobeyed, and when it found they had been, then to proceed under sec. 725 of the Revised Statutes, which grants power 'to punish by fine or imprisonment disobedisnes by any-other party or person, to any lawful writ, process, orders, rules, decree or command, and to enter the order

DEBS DENOUNCES THE COURT.

TERRE HAUTE (Ind.,) May 27.—President E. V. Debs of the A.R.U., whose case was acted upon today by the Supreme Court, was seen at his home tonight, and

"I expected a favorable decision, but I am not disappointed. After the decision by that tribunal upon the income tax bill I am not at all surprised to see the decision of the lower court affirmed in our case. Both decisions are absolutely in the interest of the corporations, syndicates and trusts, which dominate every department of the government, including the Supreme Court."

WASHINGTON, May 27.—It is not improbable, in view of today's decision of the Supreme Court, that Eugene V. Debs and the other officers of the A.R.U., nov under indictment for violations of the anti-trust and mail obstruction acts will anti-trust and mail obstruction acts will not be called upon to stand trial. Under today's decision Debs will serve his sentence of six months in Jail, and it is thought that the government will consider this a severe punishment without prosecuting the criminal cases against him or his associates.

ted Press Leased-wire Service. NEW YORK, May 27.—A special to the World from Paris says that the chief musical event of the Paris season has been ounting of Wagner's "Tannhau ser" at the Opera. Three representation of the work were given forty-four years ago, but so much opposition was encoun-tered then that Wagner wihtdrew his place before the fourth representation. The opposition was organized by members of the Jockey Club, who were incensed by Wagner declining to introduce a ballet in the second act. Recently, however, the authorities endeavored to make nds for the conduct of their prede-ors by giving Wagner's music an en-

Another noteworthy musical event of the past few days was the piano recital of M. Edouárd Zeidenrust, the Dutch pianist. His playing of Beethoven's "Appassionata," Offenbach's "Fantasia" and rugue, and of Schubert's "Eribang" roused his audience to an extraordinary pitch of one absorbing event at the Seaside Ath-letic clubhouse tonight was the 25-round mill between Tommy Ryan and "Mysterlous" Billy Smith of Boston. The mer weighed in at 148 pounds. From the start the fighting was fast and furious. Up to the eighteenth round Smith was right after Ryan and the Western man, although he put up a fierce fight, was getting much the worst of it. Ryan, however, got in many hard ones.

In the eighteenth the tide of the battle changed. Ryan jabbed his right on the face and his left on the body. He then split Smith's ear, hitting him right and gong sounded three times, Ryan hitting Smith once more.

Owing to an agreement between the men which was to the effect that if the police stopped the fight, it should be declared a draw, the referee so decided and the spectators seemed satisfied.

the outlook for a good crew at Harvard this World from Cambridge, Mass., says that the outlook for a good crew at Harvard this year is far from encouraging. The hard luck which has followed it from the beginning of the season continues. A fortnight ago it was thought that the eightmen who will sit in the boat in the Yale race were decided upon, but now Hollister and Stevenson threaten to upset the previous calculation. Hollister has rowed with the 'varsity most of the season, and when Stevenson dropped the stroke oar he was put in the position. The early part of this week he was compelled to give up training, and has gone away from Cambridge for a ten days' rest.

After the class races three substitutes, E. N. Wrightington and J. E. Chatman from from the sophomore boat, and J. A. Stillman of the juniors were taken to the 'varsity table. Chatman and Stillman are at present rowing with the eight during the absence of Hollister and Stevenson. Bullard has gone to stroke, a position which he may fill in the Yale race. The other men in the order they are now rowing are: Fennessy, No. 7; Watress, No. 6; Chatman, No. 5; Stillman, No. 4; Shepard, No. 3; Damon, No. 2; Lewis, bow.

While I think Cornell ought to have a good chance to win at Henley, I do not admit that Cornell is superior to Yale oarsmen. We do not care to row Cornell every year, but if she feels that she has a good crew, I would just as soon row her a race for the purpose of easing her mind a bit, either before she goes to England or when she returns. That would settle all this talk all the while going on about Cornell's fast crew, for once and forever, I believe."

In full view of the multitude gathered to spend Sunday away from the heat and dust and din of the city, a young man, Tony Heafle by name, dropped from an ascending balloon several hundred feet to the earth. His body was crushed to a mere shapeless mass and bore small resemblance to a human form. Whether the tragedy was the result of accident or suicidal design no one knows.

Heafle and a number of other young men and boys were engaged to hold the balloon while it was being filled with gas. When the signal was given they all released their hold but Heafle. He clung to the bar or was caught in the rigging, and was carried up a distance of from four hundred to six hundred feet, when he dropped.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The Supreme Count of the United States made a most important ruling upon the admission of the Chinese exclusion laws today, by affirming the refusal of the United States District Court for the Northern District of California, to grant an application for a writ of habeas corpus, made by Lem Moon Sing, who was barred from entry by the collector of the port of San Francisco.

Sins, who was barred from entry by the collector of the port of San Francisco.

Lem Moon Sing was engaged in business, a member of the wholesale drug firm of Kee San Tong & Co. of San Francisco, and in January, 1894, went to China, intending to return to his business. During his absence the appropriation act of August 18, 1894, was passed, containing an ottem of $50,000 for officers to enforce the Chinese exclusion act, and expenses of deporting Chinamen. He returned in November of the same year, and the colvember of the same year, and the collector at San Francisco refused to admit him, although he furnished the testimony of two credible winesses, showing that he had been engaged in business as a merchant for two years before leaving the country.

merchant for two years before leaving the country.

Application was made to the District Court for the Northern District of Callfornia for a writ of habeas corpus, based on these facts, and the further point that he was not held by any judicial process. The writ was denied and an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court.

Justice Harlan, in the opinion delivered by him for the court, rested the case upon the statute providing that the decisions of immigration or customs officers refusing admission to aliens shall be final unless reversed on appeal to the Secretary of the Treasury. Justice Harlan quoted several former opinions of the court to the effect that every sovereign has the power, inherent in sovereignty and necessary to self-preservation, to forbid the entrance of foreigners.

The contention was made by the Chinamen's attorney that, while immigration officers had jurisdiction to exclude an alien entitled or claiming to be entitled to entry undersome statute or treaty, the exclusion of an alien entitled or claiming to be entitled to entry undersome statute or treaty, the exclusion of an alien entitled or claiming to be entitled to entry undersome statute or treaty, the exclusion of an alien entitled or claiming to be entitled to entry undersome statute or treaty, the exclusion of an alien entitled or claiming to be entitled to entry undersome statute or treaty, the exclusion of an addictat the manifest purpose of Congress in committing to subordinate immigration officers and to the Secretary of the Treasury exclusive authority to determine whether aliens seeking admission belong to the class entitled by law or treaty to enter.

In conclusion, Justice Harlan said that the court did not express any opinion upon the question whether Lem Moon Sing was entitled to re-enter the United States.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The rapid in roads which fishing and packing com-panies have made on the supply of sal-mon in the Alaskan rivers has given great concern to the government for seven years past, eince it became evident tha seaso to the northern waters, at the di-tempts to scourse effective restraining legis-lation from Congress have proven practi-cally without result, but a new phase of the canning syndicate's operations is now engageing the attention of the Land Office which may result in measures that will have the effect of restricting the enter-prise of some of the companies engaged in the business.

It has recently been brought to the uttention of Commissioner Lamoreaux of the Land Office that the calmon companies are acquiring much land at the mouths of the rivers, where they are engaged, and promising strategical points for future commerce. Consequently the Commissioner has detailed J. P. Swineford, an ex-Governor of Alaska, who is now an inspector of the Interior Department, to make an investigation of the matter and keep the department posted, that it may know that all the requirements of the law are compiled with. The cannery companies have asked that surveys be made by the government of lands on which they have settled, with a view of their acquisition. Swineford will seal from Seattle for Alaska. The present Governor of Alaska, in his last report to the Secretary of the Interior, called attention to the inroads being made on the sammon, and the same cubject was treated in a report to the Fifty-third Congress by Fish Commissioner McDonald.

Wilcox of the Fish Commission that the capital invested in these fisheries amounts to more than $3,000,000 and the value of the season's catch, not including the manufactured products therefrom, comes to about $2,000,000. Last year there were twenty-two cannenies in operation, which packed 664,000 cases (a case holding forty-efght pound packages) and twenty-four salting establishments put on the market 21,000°barrols of salt salmon. The largest pack which has been in the Alazkan waters was that of 1891, when 56,000,000 pounds of salmon were shipped to the markets of the Pacific Coast for distribution. The proportions which the business had then reached alarmed the companies engaged in cit to prevent injurious competition, and an agreement was made to limit the output a little more than one-half of the capacity of the works.

unrious competition, and an agreement was made to limit the output a little more than one-half of the capacity of the works.

In 1891 the number of men employed was 4700 and in 1892 it was reduced to 2884. Even with this combination in effect the fish have been kelled off from year to year so that the supply is surely decreasing at a great rate. The greater part of the catch is made at the mouth of the Karluk River. Experts of the Fish Commission assert that the kinds of seines used operate to bar the way so effectually, one being placed behind another, that practically all of the fish are caught at the mouths of the rivers. Thus they are prevented from reaching their spewning-grounds and their reproduction is prevented. It was only after the salmon fisheries of the Columbia and other Pacific rivers had been greatly overworked that resort was had to the products of Alaskam rivers. The government was awakened at a faste day to its negligence in falling to restrict fishermen of Oregon and Washington. Now a weekly closed season is in effect on the waters of these States. Cod and herring are aiready being caught in small quantities and there is much opportunity for enterprise in the development of new fisheries. The Fish Commission has collected much information concerning the food fish of Alaska, which shows that there are many undeveloped fisheries furnishing great commercial possibilities for the future.

It is declared that if the order is not revoked or modified, a general mutiny will take place and, as the volunteers hold the key to the situation, a revival of the scenes that took place in the '70s will be re-enacted. Dodgers have been circulated calling on volunteers to assemble in uniform. It is expected that in the excited state of the Havana citizens a riot will be the outcome.

NEW YORK, May 27.—A special to the Herald from San Diego says that the telegraph wires were cut between this city, San Luis Songo and intermediate points on the Sabrinella and Morotto Ratiroad, and it is feared that the traffic will be again suspended. The robel forces raided El Cristo. They burned the commodious garrison building in Moron and are within half a teague of San Luis. It is thought an attack upon the tatter place is seriously contemplated. San Luis is one of the terminal points of the railroad. It is imbablied mostly by loyal Spanish citizens, of whom a majority are well-to-do.

A flutter of excitement is noticeable among the Sapnish marines caused by the news that two new expeditions sailed for Cubs, one from Florida and the other from Honduras. The latter was fitted out in New York. It is said three Spanish walkings hurried to sea with orders to intercept both. Only the gunboat Conde Venadito, whose boilers were strained recently in a fruitless race after the Nordstrand, remains in port. She will go to Havanan or moon for repairs.

"The revolutionists will find a different condition from the one that prevailed when the former civil war broke out." he said. "At this time there are very few Cabans of intelligence or influence in the province who desire an appeal to arms. In the ten-years' war nearly all Cubans sympathized with the revolt against Spain. The revolt in Santiago province I believe will fail. Conditions are not ripe for such a movement. Cuba is not ripe for such a movement. Cuba is not ripe for such a movement. Cuba is not ripe for separation from the mother country.

"I do not agree with the great Spaniard Emilio Castelar, who says that the Cubans are not for self-government. I do not go as far as that, but I think if the Separatists were to have their way and sever all connection with Spain for a long period, Cuba would suffer revolutions and disorder such as exists in some Central American States. Property would be exploited and general rule would prevail. Time, education, the acquirement of self-restraint and familiarity with the law-abiding characteristics of the great United States would ultimately correct these raids, but the price would be fearful to pay."

World from Havana says that an unconfirmed report comes from Santiago that an American named Woodbury or Woodward was killed by Spaniards in the fight at Boca Deserios, where Jose Marti is said to have fallen:

Woodward arrived on the Niagara, the direct steamer from New York, the latter part of April. He was very young, had a bright, honest face and a confiding manner. He said that he was from St. Louis, and that after a stay in New York had come to see what he could do in the rebeilion. He was to furnish letters to a New York newspaper and to serve the Western Journals. He was poorly equipped and seemed short of money.

In addition to being wholly ignorant of the Spanish language Woodward had vague ideas of the geography of the country and of the characteristics of the people. Armed with a letter to a well-known Cuban who was in active sympathy with the revolution, Woodward announced his intention of going to the interior. The correspondents tried to dissuade him, but he reposed that he would make a reputation as a correspondent or die in the attempt.

The chief parliamentary tangle of the whole series of sessions of the assembly came in connection with a report of the Committee on Church Policy on the reception of polygamous converts in India. The committee recommended an answer to the overture of the synod of India which amounted to no action. A serious resistance was offered by Rev. Robert Morris of the Presbytery of Lodiana, India, and the discussion which he aroused started a stream of motions, amendments, points of order and questions for information in which the moderator almost lost his feet. It was finally referred back to the committee for further report. The order of the day was then taken up, hearing reports on synodical minutes. The house immediately began to thin out and convention and conversation reigned.

His proposition is that the heads of every bureau and State commission shall hold a convention and, under the direction of the Governor, form a supervisory board. This board shall discuss all industrial and statistical maters and assign to each the lines on which the work contemplated by the law shall be performed.

This will do away with several State officers laboring in the same field. It will further save the State thousands of dollars for printing the reports of many commissions where their work has been duplicated. The Wire-fence Telephone.

The Wire-fence Telephone.

(Webster City Freeman:) A news item partially describing an innovation in telephone line construction, each out from this city two or three weeks ago, has gone the rounds apparently of the entire press of the country, and letters are pouring in from all parts of the United States, asking questions about the barbed-wire fence telephone. The very general interest taken in the new invention, or rather discovery or improvement, is easily accounted for by the fact that cheap and convenient means of disseminating information is a problem of great practical and universal importance. The new telephone is of especial importance to farmers and promises to work almost a revolution in the method of communication possible and practicable, with cheap and effective telephone communication possible and practicable, the isolation, which is one of the worst features of farm life, will be greatly mitigated, and the use of fences seems destined to work a solution of the problem. The operations so far conducted are largely of an experiment in so pronounced and satisfactory as to justify the The operations so far conducted are largely of an experimental nature, but the success of the experiment is so pronounced and satisfactory as to justify the most sampuine opinion of the utility of the new telephone line in practical affairs. The first elephone connection by use of a wire fence in this locality, was one to Highview, a distance of four miles. E. H. Martin made the connection for use in his telephone exchange. The top wire of the railroad fence was used. Where the wire was disconnected a connection was made, and at the road crossings the ends of the fence wire were connected by an insulated wire running under the ground. The wire was not have lated where it passed through stapies on the posts. The results were all that could be desired. Mr. Martin then made a similar connection with Williams, fifteen miles in an opposite direction by the same means, and this experiment, too, was a promounced success. A longer distance has not been tried, but it is thought is own hand in the vexatious negotiated by the preceding administration. This caused great anger among the nations. This caused great anger among then attend whit which the United States had such the testine was talk the storm fell upon Secrethe was talk of retaliation and tariff wars, and in some case this was realized to a certain extent. Mr. Gresham's task was to blacate the European powers, and how skiffully he did so the printed correspondence tells. He fairly amazed the vertain extent. A longer distance has not been tried, but it is thought on a long distance telephone, say 109 miles, that it would be necessary to insulate the wire at the staples. Mr. Martin used a receiver and transmitter of his own meanufacture and partially of his own invention in the experiment, and also a one-cell battery of his own invention. He says that the quality of the instruments used is a prime consideration in getting good results in any telephone hine, and is expecially important in a line of this kind, where the insulation is by no me-ts perfect. Both of these lines have been discontinued now on account of the railroad company not allowing the use of the fences, as the telephone condicted with the interests of the Western Union Telegraph Company. But the success of these experiments show the possibilities in this direction, and it is easy within the probabilities that low will be "gridinoned" with a good, cheap and effective system of telephone within the next lew years, reaching into every school district in the Shape.

It was learned that President Rooseveit was determined that, if the bi-partisan law will permit him being a member of the department, and he is unable to convince his associates that a better man may be found, he may himself consent to be made chief.

acting under Mr. Gresham's instructions, that the peace negotiations were instituted.

While he was doing this Secretary Gresham was also using his good offices to prevent a war between Mexico and Gualtemals, both full of fighting spr.t. and difficult to restrain, and in this he succeeded completely, although he was obliged to use very strong representations to do so. While the amount of monry involved was insignificant in the case of the claims of United States citizens against Venezuela, Secretary Gresham managed, through a joint commission, to secure a judicial annunciation of a doctrine that is of the greatest importance to the civilized world, namely that the government of that country is responsible for the abuse or ill-treatment of foreigners cymmitted by invurgents.

In two of the three incidents that occurred during his administration he had to contend with great powers. The first of these cases, while attracting little attention at the time, was really of great importance, for it amounted to a declaration to Europe that the United States would not permit private claims to be collected from American republics where our citizens had pecuniary interests. This was the case at San Domingo when the French warship which had come there to enforce the collection of a private claim was withdrawn after a very strong hint from Secretary Gresham, conveyed through imbassasdor Eustis, that the United States would regard such a course as an unfriendly manifectation. Again in Bluefields, when the British marines occupied the bluffs, they were promptly withdrawn when Secretary Gresham called upon The superintendent of a large wood engraving establishment in New York said that women never succeed at that business. Thirty-eighth Indiana, but before he saw active service he was appointed colonel of the Fifty-third Indiana in 1881. Mr. Gresham's regiment was ordered to join Gen. Grant at Fort Donaldson. On August 11, 1883, he was appointed brigadlergeneral on the recommendation of Grant and Sherman and placed in command of the Natcher division. In the following spring he was placed in command of the Natcher division. In the following spring he was placed in command of the division of the Seventeenth Corps of the Tennessee which took part in the campaign against Atlanta. At Leggett's Hill before Atlanta he was struck by a sharpshooter's builet just below the knee. To the day of his death he never recovered the full use of the limb.

The war over, Gen. Gresham returned to his profession at New Albany, Ind. In 1866 he was nominated for Congress against M. C. Kerr, but the district was Democratic and he was defeated. When Gen. Grant became President he appointed Mr. Gresham United States District Judge for Indiana. When Postmaster-General Howe died in 1883, Mr. Gresham was tendered the Cabinet position by telegraph and accepted. Near the close of Arthur's term, on the death of Secretary Folger, he was appointed Secretary of the Treasury, a position which he held until October, 1884. President Arthur, who had taken him from the bench, had the satisfaction of restoring him to the bench at the close of his service by appointing him to succeed Judge Drummond.

Almost the last official act done before he fell mortally ill was to open currespondence with France intended to secure justice for ex-United States Copsus Wailer, whom he believed to have ben ill-treated by the summary French court in Madagascar, and in whose interests he notified Minister Eustis to interfere.

The Secretary was a hard warker. He was thoroughein all things and insisted in reading up every aspect of a case which came before him. This involved long hours spent in study, and it is now elegant that Secretary Greham was brought to the last illness by the great exections he was obliged to put forth to discharge his official duties to his own satisfaction. During his career on the bench Judge Greham heard and decided many noteworthy cases. His greatest decision was in the Wabash case, when he went beneath technicalities and placed all the lines of the system under a receiver, thus giving Jay Gould a direct blow.

In 1858 Mr. Gresham married Miss Matilda McGrain, a man of Scotch-Irish descent. A son and daughter were born to them, who live in Chicago. He was devoted to his wife and children. This side of his life the public knew nothing of, but it furnishes the best key to his nature and character.

RENOUNCES THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

In 1888 Gen. Gresham was made a prominent candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency at the Chicago convertion. His views on the tariff created against him the antagonism of the extreme protectionsits at Chicago. Judge Gresham openly dissented from the McKinley law and 1892, affer the nomination of Cleveland by the Democrats, he, once Republican, remounced his allegiance to the Republican parity and advocated Cleveland's election. After Cleveland was elected in February, 1893, he summoned Gresham to Lakewood, N. J., where, after a consultation, he tendered him the position of premier of the Cabinet he was forming. Judge Gresham accepted the trust on March 7. During his shor, term as Postmaster-General Judge Gresham accomplished much. Letter postage to Canada was reduced and the postal contract with Mexico was signed. Another important service he rendered to the country was the re-establishment of fast matic.

As Secretary of State in the present administration Mr. Gresham has had to deal with perhaps more vexatious, intricate and delicate diplomatic affairs than has fallen to the share of most Secretaries of State. The great question of the hour at that time was the annexation to the Cabinet, and it was upon his recommendation that President Cleveland performed almost his first official action by withdrawing from the Senate, in which it was spending, the annexation treaty negotiated by Secretary Foster. Then Blount was sent to the islands to make an original investigation and upon his report the Secretary made his now celebrated recommendation: "That the Queen be restored, inasmuch as whe had been deposed by the action of the officers of the United States." When Congress finally made known its views as east fisheries. The arbitration arranged by his predecessor was in full swing. Here was another matter with which he was not in harmony. He did not believe that the arbitration would be successful in the object aimed at by the United States, namely, the protection This is the story of a "Trilby" pilgrim-age, a little journey from new Parks, near the Bois, into old Paris, to see the crooked

This is the story of a "Trilby" gligrimage, a little journey from new Parks, near the Bois, into old Paris, to see the crooked streets once touched by those famous feet, says the Paris correspondent of the New York Sun. Trilby never really lived? No matter. She is a haunting vision of one of the most storled corners of the world. It would be worth while seeing the streets loved by this Trilby (or some duchess-like grisuette with the "soft eyes,") by Taffy, Little Billee, and the Laird, or by dozens of other young Englishmen whose intimate histories may never be written. Beside one of the old book stalls overlooking the Seine the book was opened at the very beginning.

"A bargain which he had picked up for a mere song in the Boulevarde du Temple. He gazed at the busy place below—the Place St. Anatole des Arts. One gap went right through the block and gave him a glance of the river, the Cite, and the ominous old morgue. A little to the right rose the gray towers of Notre Dame."

With these details it seems easy to locate the romane-hallowed sunts of Trilby. But not a faithful and the place St. Anatole des Arts. But the Place St. A of the seals, but, regardless of the outcome, he was forced to bring the British government to a renewal of the modus vivendl or quick action to carry out the award when it was announced, in order to guard against the annihilation of the seals. The British were unwilling to do the first of these things, and it was only by an exhibition of all the strength of his character and purpose that he succeeded in hurrying through the British Parliament an act to give effect to the arbitration and then securing the adoption of regulations to keep off the poachers.

It was luncheon hour, and students were thronging the cafes. There were charbon shops, where grimy-eyed proprietresses with arms akimbo filled the doorways; passages with grand names, no more than twieting clefts between old, encroaching houses; smill-windowed restaurants, where dinners were cooked and sent home to etudios, and where eggs and rabbits sizzled in bulk before a street audience, and, best of all, a blanchisserie, where most tempting specimens of laundry work were displayed.

Another legacy from his predecessor which Mr. Gresham found very little to his liking was the necessity for caring for the Samoan King, held imprisoned on the Sunday Island by the Germans. He wanted to repudiate the whole arrangement by which the United States assumed a part of the tripartite protectorate over Samoa, and he worked hard to this end, and finally succeeded in inducing President Cleveland to recommend to Congress that the United States withdraw from all further participation in Samoan affairs. THE GOOD OFFICES.

Then in the constructive side of diplomacy Mr. Gresham had much to his credit. He did all that a foreign officer could do properly to prevent the atrocties of the Japanese war: lost no opportunity at any stage to bring it to an end, and ultimately when peace was restored it was through the good offices of the American ministers in China and Japan, acting under Mr. Gresham's instructions, that the peace negotiations were instituted.

No "imperial zouves," reckless or otherwise, guard the Pa'ace of the Louvre now. Instead there was a little sedier of the republic, looking shop-worn and with a very blue nose. The Rue de Rivoli is still arcaded in drab stone and lined by shops to dazzle the francs out of one's nocket. There, too, is the Place de la Concorde, and just as in the days when the six British eyes surveyed the "smart people" with envy, the bijou broughams and low-dipped victorias come in streams down the Champs Elysees from the Bois and flash around the Place. There is splendor in the scene—lights and twilight mist, satin-coated horses and sliver harness, languid faces under dotted veils, King Charles spaniels in the laps of co-cottes, the odor of violet and chypre on the air.

Breath Figures.

New light has lately been thrown en the curious set of phenomena known as breath-figures, although their study con-tirues to baffle the investigations of scientists. Half a century ago, Prof. Karsten of Berlin placed a coin on a plece of clean, plain glass, and passed that a current of electricity. Nothin seen on the glass when the coin was re-moved, but when the plate was breathed on the characters of the coin became vision the characters of the coin became visi-ble. Impressions were similarly produced by Sir W. R. Grove with simple paper forms; in one German laboratory figures were developed on polished surfaces on which rough bodies had been placed, and in another, a breath-track made on glass-ways afterward made visible by a feeble was afterward made visible by a feeble electrical discharge. This subject, which has always been peculiarly fascinating, has lately been taken up with exemplary care and perseverance by Prof. W. B. Croft. In spite, however, of the thoroughhas lately been taken up with exemplary care and perseverance by Prof. W. B. Croft. In spite, however, of the thoroughness of the investigations, Prof. Croft has been able to do little more than demonstrate the phenomea involved in such a way as to increase the possibility of a favorable result from further researches. A great number of plans were tried. That, most successful was the placing of a coin of any metal in the center of a glass plate on an insulated table. In many cases the image on the coil would not touch the glass on account of the projecting ring, but these seemed to be best suited for the experiment. A strip of tinfoli is run from the coin to the edge of the glass; on the coin is placed a smaller plate of glass, and above that plate a second coin. The tinfoli and the upper coin are connected with the poles of an electric machine, the haldle of which is turned for two minutes, so that continuous sparks may pass. In taking up the glass, nothing can be seen on it, even with the help of a magnifying glass. Yet on the glass there is a latent impression, for, by breathing on the side of the glass next to the coin, a clear frosted picture of that side of the coin, a clear frosted picture of that side of the coin, a black ring, a quarter of an inch in breadth. Should the coin have milled edges, radical lines will be seen, even to the emailelst details. All the graduations of light and shade are marvelously clear. Under the micryscope moisture is seen really deposited over the whole, but the size of the minute water pardicles in creases as the part of the picture is darker in shade. Around the coin's disk is a black ring, a quarter of an inch in breadth. Should the coin have milled edges, radical lines will pass through this ring. There is no apparent limit to the permanence of these breathfigures; if they are carefully protected they will last for years. Months after they have been set aside, the black ring around the disk gradually changes into several rings, forming beautiful concentre alternations of

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES LOS ANGELES, May 27, 1895. BRITISH CAPITAL. It was mentioned cently in this column that a real estate on which has offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles, was engaged in obtaining British money for loan in this country, the security offered being in the shape of "gold bonds," guaranteed by a San Francisco financial institution. From San Francisco it is amounced that Wendell Easton, of the firm referred to, has succeeded in placing $250,000 of the debenture bonds of the Pacific Coast Saving Soclety, through which society the money will be loaned. These bonds, lesued under will be loaned. These bonds, issued under a special charter, are the first debenture bonds of the Pacific Coast to be floated in a foreign market.

It is also stated that the same firm has been placed in charge for a number of years of the California investments of an English company, amounting to over $1,000,000. As good deal of the money obtained on these securities will come to Southern California, and should have an effect in lightening the rates of interest. Southern California could be made a favorite field for British investors, if our legislators could be induced to let well enough alone and not place unnecessary obstacles in the way of foreign capital, which is much needed in this section to develop our water resources and subdivide our big ranches.

COMMERCIAL.

A COAL COMBINE. The latest trust to be formed on this Coast is in the shape of a union of retail and coal dealers, which is said to be supported and practically con-trolled by wholesale handlers of foreign coal. The San Francisco Chronicle announces that 100 dealers in that city have signed an unusual compact. Its purpose is not only to raise prices, but to mainis not only to raise prices, but to maintain them. The greatest difficulty was encountered in overcoming those retail dealers who refused to enter the combination. At last a plan was conceived to force them to sign the compact, and before this month is over, it is reasonably certain that every handler of coal in the city will be in the combination. Prices have already and handler of coal in the city will be in the combination. Prices have already advanced, and the dealers have it absolutely in their power to do as they please. Any objections which consumers may choose to make will be useless. The retail dealers, through the manipulations of the wholesalers, are musters of a very interesting situation.

It was generally supposed by the public that prices of coal in California were high enough, if not too high, but the organizers of the trust, in defense of their action, say that the wholesale dealers claim they have been losing money for years owing to the ruinous policy of competition which has prevailed in San Francisco. The Chronfele has the following on the subject:

which has prevailed in San Francisco. The Chronicle has the following on the subject:

"When a retail dealer found that he could fare better by going to one house rather than to another, he transferred his trade. There was not even a semblance of unanimity in price for the same kinds of coal. This led to a war in which spite and a desire for retakistion cut heavily into profits all around. The war which had begun among the wholesale dealers was extended to include retailers.

"Something had to be done or several worthy local firms would have to go out of business. Efforts to form a combination met with half-bearted encouragement. The dealers were evidently afraid of each other, and feared that any compact which might be made would not be kept.

"Finally the Rosenfelds and Dunsmuirs made another attempt to reach some understanding. Everywhere there was a cry for cheaper fuel. Efforts were being made to stimulate manufacturing industries, and the first essential in the success of such a plan was cheaper fuel. Affairs for the coal dealers began to look worse rather than better, and a combination from their point of view became a necessity. The situation assumed this aspect last January, and the compact was not signed until last Wednesday night.

"After a great deal of discussion the wholesale dealers came to an understanding among themselves. They agreed not only to establish a uniform price for each kind of coal, but they stipulated upon certain penalties for a violation of the compact. They decided to advance the prices without delay, and did so, notwithstanding a condition of affairs which should have reduced the prices instead of raising them.

"The Wilson tariff at this time."

have reduced the prices instead of raising ing a condition of ariars which should have reduced the prices instead of raising them.

"The Wilson tariff at this time went into effect. It happened to work against the interest of the coal dealers, as it reduced the tariff upon foreign coals 40 cents on the ton. This naturally meant a reduction of 40 cents a ton to all consumers, but the wholesale men had become in a measure masters of the situation, and decided to keep prices where they were before the tariff went into effect.

"In their enormous volume of business this meant a great profit to them. They could not, however, control the retail dealers, who were cutting where and when they saw fit in prices. The next step in forming the mammoth combination was to force the retail dealers into line and to keep them there. It required a great real of manipulation before 100 retail dealers could be induced to sign the compact. They were suspicious of each other and of the wholesale men, but at last they were persuaded to join the organization.

"This compact means a great deal to the compact. They were suspicious of each other and of the wholesale men, but at last they were persuaded to join the organization.

"This compact means a great deal to the consumers of the city, as it affects heavy purchasers as well as small. The retail dealers have made the same promise as the wholesale handlers of coal. They have agreed to establish a uniform price from which there shall be absolutely no deviation. The compact includes every variety of coal, foreign and domestic, sold in this market. From time to time the members of the combination will set the price for each kind of coal, and every dealer in the city will be compelled to sell it at that price. If he refuses to obey the rules he will be practically driven out of the business."

The San Franciscans are to be commiserated on the prospect of higher prices of coal. Fortunately Los Angeles, owing to its petroleum resources, is to a great extent independent of coal, at least as far as manufacturing institutions are concerned, while there is no doubt that as soon as the definite character of the local oil supply shall have been established there will be practicable inventions brought forward for the consumption of crude oil in stoves, so that fuel will not cost the householder more than the equivalent of from $3.50 to $5 for coal, which is certainly reasonable enough. Then, before long, we may be in a position to come to the relief of our San Francisco friends by letting them have some of our coal oil, which could easily be shipped regularly up the coast in tank steamers, as it is now brought from Peru.

Let the coal dealers combine, Los Angeles is prepared to meet them.

ORANGES IN NEW YORK. The follow-iowing, which is taken from the New York Commercial Advertiser of May 1, gives a good idea of the difficulty which those who have been handling California or-anges in the East have had to contend with:

"Oranges are very plentiful and very anges in the East have and to contend with:

"Oranges are very plentiful and very cheap in New York at present. A California friend of mine, who has an orange grove near Los Angeles, while here the other day, sauntered down along the streets adjacent to the water front and saw piles upon piles of boxes of oranges strewn along the sidewalks and being unloaded from wagons. It was a perfect river of oranges, and here and there huge placards announced "Messina Oranges—twenty for 25 cents." And the more he wandered the more oranges he saw—all from the sunny slopes of Italy. Here and there he could see some splendid specimens of the California navel, but these are beyond the reach of ordinary mortals. The Italians knock them out in whort order, thanks to the generous impulses of a free-trade Congress. California oranges are too heavily freighted to compete with the fruit brought in tramp ships from Italy. Although the Florida cropwas a complete failure, oranges are as cheap as ever. Labor is as nothing in Italy, and neither Florida nor California can compete. There is a good demand for the California navels up in Fifth avenue, where price is a secondary consideration, but the populus vulgus confine themselves to the Italian production, supplemented from time to time by the product of the West Indies.

An effort should be made to secure an inconstitution of the california should be made to secure an inconstitution.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

CAMPHOR. A camphor famine is threatened, as a result of the war between Japan and Chins. The price of camphor has rapidly advanced and Japan is placing the most severe restrictions upon its exporta-tion. Much of the camphor in this country is held by a syndicate. Should a warm summer bring cholera and dysentery, the demand for camphor would be very great and the scarcity will not only interfere with many medical compounds, but will hinder the manufacture of smokeless gun-powder, in which camphor largely enters as an ingredient.

powder, in which camphor largely enters as an ingredient.

The Times has referred on several occasions to the opening which exists for the growing and manufacture of camphor in Southern California. The camphor trees which are found scattered here and there through the city and surrounding section are remarkably vigorous and thrifty. Who will be the first to give this new industry a fair teat?

WHAT IS A LETTER. A case recently happened in Boston, which may be of some interest to those who are in the habit of mailing letters and packages to foreign countries, as it resulted in deciding what the postal authorities consider to be a letter, in its official signification. The following are the particulars of the case, as reported by the Paper World:

"A Boston architect offered at the postoffice in that city a sealed roll, addressed to the Commissioner of Patents at Ottawa, Canada, on which the proper amount of postage, at letter rates, had been paid. The clerk in charge of the window declined to receive the roll as a letter, and on the matter being referred to him, Postomater Coveney decided that the term letter is to be construed to mean and embrace scaled packages commisting of an envelope of any size, but flat, as is the usual letter. The objector did not think that this ruling and definition of a letter was correct, and gave his opinion that a letter was a package containing personal matter of no salable value. The matter being referred to the authorities at Washington for decision, the superintendent of foreign mails in due dime forwarded a decision embodying the joint opinions of Canadian and American postal authorities, to the effect that the term letter, in its usual and ordinary form, is to be construed to embrace scaled packages consisting of an envelope of any size, but of the usual letter was a package on tinclosed in an "envelope," as the word envelope is generally used, cannot be considered to be "a letter in its usual and ordinary form." A sealed package in the form of a roll is, therefore, not usual and ordinary form." A sealed package in the form of a roll is, therefore, not as the word envelope is generally used, cannot be considered to be "a letter in its usual and ordinary form." A sealed package in the form of a roll is, therefore, not entitled to transmission in the mails excha

NEW YORK, May 27.—The country got another grip on wheat this morning and during the first half hour, after a preliminary skirmish with professional operators during which prices gyrated considerably, it rushed values up to a point 2%c above Saturday's closing. The first sales of July were made at different prices from 82½, then the market receded to 81%, and almost at once went up to 83%, with outsiders furnishing the steam. At mid-day, however, attempts to bull the market any further were discontinued, in view of the bull-ish character of the news, and then the bears went at it hammer and tongs and soon reduced the early rise until at the close prices only showed a net advance of ½c. Reports that a big line of long wheat in Chicago was being sold out added to the afternoon depression. Total transactions today were 12,100,000 bushels.

Associated Press Leased-wire Seroics—
CHICAGO, May 27.—The session commenced with the now daily-repeated extravagant excitement in the wheat pit. The bulls already held the whole of the grain in the visible supply and had bought for future delivery all that will be harvested from the growing crop and were still clamorous for more. The bears shouted for some of it. It came high, but they had to have it. July wheat, which harely could be sold for 79½ at noon on Saturday, readily brought from 80½ up to 81% at the opening this morning. The most generally current price at the start was 30%. From that it rose in a few minutes to 81½ and dropped back again to 80%. It started up again and for the second time reached 80%. The very heavy orders ceased after that and the price declined to 78%. The price then continued to rush up and down in a most nervous manner. The changing aspect of the visible supply had much to do with the feverish changes in the price of wheat. When New York stocks were given at 98,000 bushels more than they amounted to a week ago the price had its tumble to 78%, and when a total decrease at all points of about two million bushels seemed likely, the price took as spward shoot to 80%, climbing to that from 75% in about ten minutes. Inside the next twenty minutes 75% became again the trading price. A little later it was up to 80%. Liverpool was quoted from 1½@2d per cental higher for futures. The news of damaging frosts in some parts of the Northwest and crop damage from indiana of the most distressing description did not seem to permanently influence the market. The feeling began to spread that the buying enthusiasm was about over. The foreign shipments for the week were heavy, and that, together with rumors of Oregon wheat on the way to Kansas City and St. Louis added to the bearish feeling which pravailed all the afternoon. The price in the last mas hour tept dropping to near 73 and rushing lowest it touched was 75% and it closed at 75%. The opening price for July corn was from 53%@53% and the highest price of the day was made at that time. The lowest point was near the end of the session, 53%, and it closed at 52%. Oats were active, with a heavy business transacted. Prices at the close were from 3%@5% under Saturday's last quotations. In provisions, pork, from an early break of 7½c, rose 62%c and closed with a net gain of 17½c. Lard at the close was barely 2½% higher than on Saturday, and ribs only secured from 2½@5c of an early gain of from 10%12½c. Much of the early buying was obcountry orders.

LOS ANGELES MALIGNED.

Reference has heretofore been made in hese columns to a grossly false and misleading statement, emanating from no body knows where, but sig "Painters' Local Union No. 206," and Pastry Cooks' Local Union No. American Railway Local Union No. 80," and by several other "unions assuming to speak for somebod; something. This statement was signed, evidently, to injure Los Angeles to the fullest extent possible by icturing this city as a place where h ring men are in the most deplorable condition it is possible to conceive; where nost of the able-bodied men who employment are roaming about streets and alleys seeking work lading none; and where, in fact, gaunt starvation stalks in every thoroughfare and peers in at every window.

If the circulation of such falsehoods were confined to the city of Los Angeles, no very great harm would be done, for know them to be false. But country the effect upon Los Angeles and Southern California is apt to be very injurious. People of the East form their pinions of this city and section, in large what they read in the newspa It is therefore important that state ments sent from here to outside news should be as accurate as possible dispatch dated Los Angeles, May 9. This dispatch opens with a statement that a combination exists, consisting of the press, the Chamber of Commerce and real estate interests of Los Angeles. Furthermore, that this combination "have been and are" advertising the numerous advantages to be derived from a resi-dence in Southern California. Now it is quite true that the Chamber of Commerce, the press, and perhaps some real estate agents have advertised in the East the advantages of a residence in Southern California. Why should not these advantages be advertised? They are real substantial, visible, and undeniable. But there "have been and are" no "combinations" of the sort mentioned, unless a concert of action on the part of the en umn after column of the press "are" de voted to skillfully drawn and beautifully colored pictures of "the life of lux-urious ease and emolument awaiting the tenderfoot." Of course this is ridiculously false. California has never been adve-tised abroad as a land of ease and "emo nd real estate are gladly welcomed." The first clause of this sen-tence is an absolute falsehood, as regards mechanics and laborers. It has been distinctly stated, time and time again, that ing section, and that mechanics who come here to find work are apt to be disap-pointed, because there is comparatively intle manufacturing to give employment to skilled workmen. The same may be said, in a qualified sense, of common laborers. While there is as much of this class of labor to be performed in Los Angeles, perhaps, as in any other city of equal size in the country, there are plenty of men to do the work, and a workman com-ing here from abroad, expecting to secure loyment at once, is not likely to succeed very readily.

But Los Angeles is not the only city in the land where the supply of labor, skilled and unskilled, exceeds the demand. As a matter of fact, the conditions of existence here for laboring men of all classes have been as favorable during the past three years as in almost any section of the country. The conditions have been much better than in many sections. Since the election of 1892, the industrial and financial conditions of the country have been steadily growing worse. The heaviest burdens have fallen upon labor. the streets of Eastern as well as of West-ern cities. Los Angeles is no exception, though she has not suffered so seriously as have most Eastern cities. The dispatch above referred to quotes from the paten above referred to quotes from the report of the Los Angeles Associated Charities to support its doleful tale of suffering here. Similar reports from or-ganized charity boards in almost any ganized charity boards in almost any other city in the nation would reveal a similar or even a worse state of affairs at any time during the past two years. In another place these traducers of their home city and their State, who have caused false reports to be sent out, refer to Southern California as "a monopolized, trust-ridden land, filled with sharks who cat their bread in the aweat of their laws." This reference aptly applies to a class of shiftless, lazy, worthless labor "agitators," some of whom are evidently responsible for the forgeries contained in the Omaha dispatch. This class of mountsbanks certainly live by "the sweat of their jaws," and honest but misguided

AGAINST DEBS.

An important decision was handed down in the Supreme Court of the United States yesterday in the Debs case. The applicawas denied, and all the contentions of the was denied, and all the contentions of the government were sustained. The decision of the court was unanimous.

By this decision the fact is firmly established that the United States government.

ment has jurisdiction, within certain itations, over every foot of soil in the United States. Also that the government's authority within those limitations is parof the supreme tribunal to catablish so simple and self-evident a proposition as this. But Dobs had full legal right to bring action for a writ of habeas corpus, and it is well that he did so, for through his application an important principle ias been established.

It was strongly intimated at one time that the Supreme Court's decision would be favorable to Debs. In the nature of things it could not have been so, unless the government of the United States was gene V. Debs as dictator.

A decision favorable to Debs in this important case would have been a fatal blow at governmental power and dignity, at the authority of the court, at law and order, at the fundamental principles of good government, and at liberty itself.

When the mob rules, liberty is dead. Mr. Debs will now probably be cupon to serve out his term in fail.

It is reported that Germany has refused to co-operate with Russia in the latter's attempt to wrest Korea from Japan. This is to the credit of Germany. Russia has acted the part of a jackal in this affair If the other nations of Europe will keep out of the fray, there isn't much doubt that little Japan can whip Russia, for Japan will have the great advantage of fighting will have the great advantage of fighting on her own ground, while Russia will have to transport troops some 2000 miles. But it is a case where Germany and En-gland should intervene and prevent Russia from carrying out her utterly selfish and utterly indefensible schemes against Japan

In discussing ways and means to attain prosperity, our Northern California brothers, if the remarks of their newspapers are any criterion, are very generally taking their cue from Los Angeles. "A long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together" i what is needed, gentlemen. Dissensions jealousies, bickerings and other forms of cussedness only hurt yourselves, brethre and help nobody but your enemies.

If the status of silver should be fixed by the international monetary conference upon a ratio recognized by the leading commercial nations, what would the silver monometallistic demagogues do for an is-sue in the next Presidential campaign? The probabilities are that in such an event they would dig up that "putrid rem ence," the rag baby, and take it to bosoms as their long-lost child.

To enlarge upon them at this time would be as unseemly as it is unnecessary. But when the final and impartial verdict of history has been rendered it will certainly place Mr. Gresham's administration of the Department of State among the least creditable in the history of the country.

The Times would be glad to add that Mr. Gresham's death is a great national calamity, if it could do so conscientiously. But such a statement would be at variance with its estimate of the man. He was manifestly unfitted for the grave responsibilities of the State Department, which require a man of broad ideas and (Perris New Era:) From present indications Perris is to have another saloon. For some time past we have been under the impression that there was something wanting in Perris and had been unable to decide just what it was. This notice of application for another saloon clears up the misty horizon. Since we come to think about it, it really is a wonder that it had not entered our mind what the thing wanted was. With the two saloons we now have besides at least two or three places where "red eye" is dispensed, it is evident that there is a rare opening for business in this line here, which no one will deny. We trust our Board of Supervisors will have business sense enough to see what this community requires in this line and grant the prayer of the pesitioners. We also desire specially to call Hon. H. C. Thompson's attention to this matter and eak that he, for once, lay aside his remaining conscientious scruples arising from his prohibition tendencies and show the people here that in times of need he can rise above party or personal preferences.

The Whistling Pillow.

(Kansas City Star:) John G. Rumble was a man after his own name. You could always tell when John G. was about because he was always "kicking" about something. He had dyspepsia and was troubled with insomnia. He had tried all the well-known cures and yet only averaged about three hours' sleep a night. He was a queer looking character, was John G., he was so awfully bald, with a pink, shining dome, surrounded with a rim of stubby hair. He looked sallow and discontented, and lean, and altogether disgusted with life. "His wife was very fond of him and petted him as much as he would allow. One day some one suggested that he get a rubber pillow. It was argued that the pillow would keep his head cool and allow him to go to sleep.

He was willing to try anything, so he bought the pillow. That night he infigted it, and as he placed his head on it he said to his wife:

"Ah! this is the thing. I'll be able to sleep with this thing, sure." And he actually dropped off to sleep without delay.

His wife was delighted.

"Ah! this is the thing. I'll be able to a steep with this thing, sure." And he actually dropped off to sleep without delay.

His wife was delighted.

An hour or two later she awoke with a thrill of horror; she felt something on her feet. She was sure it was the thind of the midnight assassin. As soon as she could get her voice she gave vent to a shriek that brought John G. on to the floor with a bound.

"Murder!" she yelled. "Somebody's got me by the feet." John G. struck a light and investigated. It was the rubber pillow.

John G. put the pillow in piace and went to sleep once more.

Mrs. Rumble was just dozing off—she was still very nervous—when she heard a low, continuous whistle. She sat up and listened. She was sure it was a signal from a burgiar under the bed to an accomplice downstairs. Her heart seemed to stop beating for awhile and then she shook her husband awake and into a sitting posture. Then the whistle ceased.

"John" she whistpered, "I heard a whistle in this very room. Some one is under the bed."

"I can't hear no whistle," said John, crossly and sleeplly, and straightsway dropped off to sleep again. The whistle sounded again and she shook John once more. John got up and lit the gas and looked around the room. Then he noticed his pillow was very fat and the whistling robber mystery was solved. The cap on the tube of the pillow had worked loose in its journey around the bed and John's head had been pressing the wind out of it; when he arose and took away the pressure the whistling roased.

Mrs. Rumble's nerves had had all the rubber pillow they could stand, and John will have to go back to counting sheep if he wants to sleep, for his rubber pillow is up in the attic behind an old trunk.

Murderer Craig's Neck is Out of Danger.

in astrology the triple murderer's neck is safe.

There are many prisoners in the County Jail who believe the "Rev." Mr. Howland's prediction is correct. Craig, himself, is non-committal on the subject, but those who come in daily contact with him since the prophecy was communicated to him, say he appears to be more hopeful than he was before.

The "Rev." Mr. Howland was himself a prisoner in the County Jail a few weeks ago, having been committed from Pasadera for trial on the charge of perjury. White immured in the bastile he created great excitement among the other prisoners by telling them their past and future. Some of the crooks who had consultations with him were almost scared out of their wits by the revelations, he made. They took great comfort, though, from the fact that he was a prisoner like themselves and not a judge on the bench. If a judge, they said, it would have been useless to try to hide any guit from him, as he could tell every act they ever did by simply learning the day and year of their birth.

This remarkable man claims to have the power to reveal past and future events.

One Thing Never Lacking.

One Thing Never Lacking.

(New York Tribune:) Whatever monotony there may be in life, the weather—at least such as we have in these parts—is surely not responsible for it. Nothing could present a more bewildering variety than our climate affords. Whether the variety is as charmring as it is bewildering and profuse is quite another matter. But of the fact of the variety there can be no possible manner of doubt. All in this merry month of May, within the compass of a single week, what have we had? The sultry heat of midsummer and the chilling frosts of midwher. Roads dusty as an ash-heap, and the same roads flowing with mud and water. Orchards white with apple blooms, and mesdows hoar with rime. Dead calm, and howling gale. Sixes of blue, and sixes of gray. The whole meteorological gamut run up and down again within a single octave of the calendar. Talk about the varied climates through which great empires reach! We have them all, right here and all together. Lapland and Rustor play

Nor is there anything on certh, unless it be the incident which men call death, which more impresses us with a sense of our own weakness and helpleseness than this same capticiousness of the stices. Before it the wiscest may as well close up his books and the strongast fold his arms. The emissible Anarchists of Mr. Howelle's "Altruria" contrived in some way to change the globe's ecliptical inclination and to control the ocean currents. But of such schlevements we lesser beings, in the benightment of individual liberty, can have no hope. A little we can do, here and there, perhaps. We can preserve our forcets and plant new ones on the unwooded plains, and dragate the arid lands until they are redeemed from drouth and best renness. Perhaps—who knows?—some practical means may be discovered of progressing a land and the stronger processes from blowing? Who will chase old General Humidity from the sir? There is talk that when the electric car fine project is realized at Redlands the line will be extended to East Highlands. Ine will be extended to East Highlands. THE HIGH SCHOOL.

An Interesting Meeting of Teachers Yesterday Afternoon.

An Interesting Meeting of Teachers Yesterday Afternoon.

The dast High-school teachers' meeting for this year was held yesterday afternoon in the High School building. There were several things that characterized this meeting as of more than ordinary importance. Besides the usual working directions given by Principal Cates, a circular from the Teachers' Committee was read. The circular in brief states that teachers for the coming year will be appointed on merit alone, preference being given to those adready employed, and that such teachers need make no application for places, that they will be considered applicants unless the committee is notified to the contrary.

This circular met with most hearty approval. Teachers declared that the long-looked-for day, when they need not be continually applying for places, had actually come and with such delight was it greeted that a very hearty vote of thanks was tendered the committee for its action.

was tendered the committee for its action.

Principal Cates then delivered a thoughtful address, in which he reviewed the year's work. The school was making decided advances all along the line. At the State University and at Stanford it has taken higher cank and the Boston School of Technology has designated this school as one of the few places where its entrance examinations shall be held. The teachers' meetings this year have been of much profit to all concerned. The work of the school in all its details is rapidly improving and especially is this true along the time of discipline. The conduct of pupils is on a higher plane than ever before and the teachers are doing stronger and more satisfactory work. The address closed with an earnest appeal to the teachers to take high professional grounds in all their intercourse one with another, as well as in their daily routine work and the wish was expressed that all might reach the highest success to which their merits and continued effort entitled them.

BEHRENDT'S BLOW.

It Came Near Laying a Bill-collector Low.

An hour or two of Justice Morris

An hour or two of Justice Morrison's valuable time was taken up yesterday afternoon with hearing of testimony in the examination of Eugene Behrendt for assault with a deadly weapon. A number of witnesses described the fight in the defendant's shoeshop when he struck N. Russell, the complaining witness, on the head with a hammer, coming within an acc of inflicting a fatal wound.

The testimony tended to show that Russell, somewhat under the influence of liquor, came into the shop and dunned Behrendt while the latter was waiting on a customer, for $2 due on a laundry bill. Behrendt put him off by saying he was busy, and besides he thought Russell owned him more than $2 for repairing shoes from time to time. Russell finally took the shoemaker by the throat and threatened to take the amount of his bill out of his skin if the money was not forthroming at once. A souffle then ensued, during which Behrendt seized a hammer and struck Russell, deared and bleeding, was hustled out of the shop by a bystander before Behrendt could do him further injury.

The case was not completed when the ## Regular Weekly Session of the City Council.

A Number of School-site Bids Opene and Referred to the Board of Education.

Fitzpatrick Acquitted of the Murder Charge—A Lawyer Suing for a Big Fee and for Money Paid Out-Court News.

The City Council opened the proposals for school sites yesterday and referred them to the Board of Education. The Hu-Society for the Prevention of Cru eity to Children and Animais was again officially recognized by the Council, and half the salary of the Humane Officer will hereafter be paid by the city. A large amount of routine business was disposed of, but nothing of special importance en-of, but nothing of special importance are livened the proceedings.

It did not take a jury long to bring in a verdict of acquittal in the case of Fitzpatrick, charged with the murder of Elber Newton in Pasadena. One of the subjects of much comment at the Courthouse erday was the suit brought by an at festerally against a rich widow for clearing her cousin of a murder charge. In addi-tion to the fee of $10,000 the lawyer wants Duncan played the baby act over som court costs assessed to him for one of his lost lawsuits to such good effect that he secured a reduction of $5 in the amount.

MUNICIPAL LEGISLATORS DISPOSE OF A BIG DAY'S WORK. The City Council met in regular s sterday morning, all the members being in attendance.

After the usual preliminaries had been disposed of, the report of the Street Superintendent relative to the laying of all gas and water mains on Main street be-fore the paving work is commenced, was received and filed.

fore the paying work is commenced, was received and filed.

That of the City Clerk recommending that the certificate of tax sale for lot 2, block E, of the Norton tract, be cancied, the property having been doubly assessed, was adopted.

In accordance with the recommendation of the Supply and Finance committees, the usual batches of requisitions for supplies and demands were approved. The report of the Sewer Committee, as published in The Times on Friday last was read and adopted, with one exception. This was the clause recommending the passage of the garbage ordinance, which matter, upon motion of President Teed, was referred back to the committee with directions to confer with the contractors for the removal of garbage.

of be interfered with until the time specied in the notice has expired.

Upon motion of Councilman Pessell the rording of the specification was so

Chavez to Alhambra avenue, be adopted. So ordered. The following ordinances were adopted in accordance with the City Clerk's suggestions: For the opening of Twelfth street, from Westlake to Alvarado street, and the appointment of a commission therefor; for the paving of Alies street, from Alameda to the river; for the grading of Burlington avenue from First to Ocean View avenue; and for the grading of St. Louis, from First to Brooklyn.

COMMITTEE REPORTS. COMMITTEE REPORTS.

reports of the Fire and Water and Finance committees, as heretofore pub-lished in The Times, were adopted as read. That of the Board of Public Works which was also published last week was read and adopted, with the exception when the recommendation to the effect that the City Attorney be instructed to draft an ordinance abandoning part of Teath street, between Alvarado and West-lake avenue, was read. Councilled

Councilman Kingery said that he had been informed that while the street was straightened out in one place, it was made crooked a block further west, and as the people on that block had bought their property on a straight street they naturally objected to having the crook forced on them. It was no doubt a benefit to the community, but he wanted to see justice done. He supposed that the matter would go through the usual course, so that the people affected might protest, but found that the proceeding under consideration go through the usual course, so that the people affected might protest, but found that the proceeding under consideration would not efflow of this.

President Teed said that there was nothing to protest against. All that had been done was to accept Rendail's deed for the street, and instruct the City Attorney to draft an ordinance abandoning part of the street. If there were any objections, the protestants could come in on Monday next and state them.

The recommendation to the effect that a franchise for an electric street railway on Hill and Sixteenth streets be advertised, brought forth a vigorous protest from President Teed, who said that he would like to know something more about the matter before secting upon it. No railroad company had applied for this franchise, and he was opposed to granting franchises to property-owners along streets unless they knew that some one would build the road.

Councilman Munson replied that so far as he knew the matter originated and man build the road.

Councilman Munson replied that so far as he knew the matter originated and was still with the property-owners without any solicitation from any outside parties. As the property-owners on Hill street signed the petition almost universally, between Eighth and Sixteenth streets, and a large number of those residing on Sixteenth street had also signed the petition, the Board of Public Works came to the conclusion that the property-owners should be considered just as much as individual petitioners for franchises.

Councilman Kängery stated that he could not see any jobbery or anything wrong behind this matter. The proposition was a fair and square one of economy, the route now proposed having only cilman Munson replied that so far ony, the route now proposed having only one curve, instead of the five curves required by the former route.

President Teed insisted that the straightforward way was the best. He had no objection to the road going down there, but did not like this novel method of procedure. He thought the man who wanted the framchise ought to come out and declare himself.

President Teed said that he was satisfied that there was something behind it which they did not understand, and as the proceeding was irregular he would vote against it.

The motion, upon being put, prevailed by a vote of 5 to 4, Councilmen Savage, Stockwell, Snyder and Teed voting negatively.

Stockwell, Snyder and Teed voting negatively.

At this juncture Le Compte Davis, Esq., appeared on behalf of McCormick and Bates, to protest against the flooding of their property in East Los Angeles adjoining zanja No. 9, which, he claimed, had been leaking for over a year past. Councilman Possell moved that the matter be referred to the Water Overseer with instructions to repair the ditch.

Mr. Davis stated that that official had been working upon the ditch for the past two months, but without any appreciable effect, and suggested that the proper remedy was to pipe the zanja.

Councilman Munson replied that there was not enough water sold from the ditch in five years to pay for its being piped, and the mothen of Councilman Pessell thereupon prevailed.

THE SCHOOL SITE BIDS.

THE SCHOOL SITE BIDS After a recess of fifteen minutes the matter of opening the bids for the verious school sites advertised last week was taken up.

Councilman Munson moved that the matter be deferred until Monday next, and the clerk directed to continue the advertisement for amother week, stating that he did not want this matter to be in the same shape as the jail-site question. President Teed said there was no reason for further delay in the matter, as everytoe knew that the Council was in a hurry to dispose of it, and bidders had been given every coportunity to put in their to dispose of it, and bidders had been given every opportunity to put in their roposals.

Councilman Snyder explained that as Councilman Snyder explained that as the Council could accept or reject any portion of the bids, it would not be necessary to readvertise the whole, if some of the bids proved unsatisfactory, and the motion was thereupon voted down and the clerk directed to open the bids. They were then read and referred to the Board of Education, as follows:

Also that the water overseer be instructed to repair the zanja pipe across Pasadena avenue at Lacy street; the bill for such work to be presented to the Los Angeles Consolidated Electrica Railway Company, which was responsible for the break. Adopted. Councilman Ashman moved that Gladys, Ruth and Towne avenues, from Fifth to Sixth streets, be sprinkled. Referred to the Board of Public Works.

Upon motion of Councilman Sayder the City Clerk was instructed to notify the Los langeles Lighting Company that the lamp on Temple street, at the intersection of Belmont avenue, was not satisfactory.

Public Works.

Dr. Walter Lindley and a delegation of ladies and gentlemen appeared at this ctage of the proceedings and addressed the Council on behalf of the Humane Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to 'children and Animals. After setting forth the objects and attainments of the Humane Society in eloquent terms, Dr. Lindley gave way to H. T. Lee, Esq., who presented a few special points anent the legal standing of the society, and asked the Council to pay half of the salary of the special officer appointed by it to do the work.

President Teed etated that he believed in the existence of the society, and had always thought the city ought to pay its officer, as his services were eminently necessary. Councilman Kingery also spoke highly of the society and its work, and, upon motion of President Teed, it was unanimously decided to grant the request of the delegation, and pay $40 per month Dr. Walter Lindley and a delegation of "The saloon-closing ordinance passed by the Council on May 6 and vetoed by the Mayor has been referred to this office by your honorable body without any instructions whatever. I do not know for what purpose the reference was made, whether you desire the ordinance amended to meet the views of the Mayor, or whether you desire a report from this office of the question of the constitutionality of the cralinance raised by the Mayor in this message. I therefore return herewith the ordinance in question until further instructed by You in the matter."

Upon motion of Counchman Munson, the matter was referred back to the City Attorney for Mr. Dunn's opinion on the constitutionality of the question involved.

"M. L. Wicks has brought an action against the city to quiet the title to lots I to 132, inclusive, of Wick's subdivision of the Kiefer tract, and upon an examination of the title to tails property, I would advise dhat a disclaimer be filed in this action by the city, reserving, however, any and all rights-of-way for zanjas which the city may now have over the same." Adopted.

Charles O. Monroe, Esq., appeared on behalf of Messrs. Childs, Hicks and others, to protest against the proposed Tenthstreet assessment district. After hearing what the attorney had to say upon the subject, Councilman Munson expressed his surprise at the action of the protestants in view of their attitude in the past.

Councilman Kingery was of the opinion that Broadway ought to be opened for the public benefit, and as the Board of Publik Works had done the best it could in the formation of the assessment district, he thought it ought to be sustained.

The draft of a tease for hot 7, block D, of the Arroyo Seco lands, to the present lessee was read, approved and referred to the Land Committee.

Board of Education. BRIEF AND HARMONIOUS MEETING

A BRIEF AND HARMONIOUS MEETING LAST EVENING.
The Board of Education met in regular session last evening, all the members except Dr. Wills being present. After the minutes of the preceding meeting had been read and approved, a communication from H. Bedford, a professional botanist and landscape gardener, relative to placing lawns around the school buildings was read and filed.
The application of the school buildings was read and filed.

The application of Mrs. J. J. Murat of No. 172 Garey street for a position as janitress was referred to the Janitors' Com-summer schools were referred to the Building Committee.

The report of Architect G. H. Wyman on the High School heating and ventilating, recommending that the furnace be changed from a coal-burning to a crude oil consuming apparatus, was received and filed.

Unon motion of Mr. Grubb the matter of changing the system was referred to the Building Committee, with power to act.

The report of the Finance Committee, approving demands aggregating $167.01, and the payrolls of the department for the current months was adopted.

The Building Committee reported that after examining the grounds on the Broadway side of the Spring street school building, it found that there was plenty of room, and consequently recommended that the fence be moved back five feet to conform with the line of the adjoining buildings. Adopted.

Also that the petitions of several teachers for leave to occupy several rooms in the school buildings during vacation be granted, provided that some one teacher in each building will become responsible for all damages, and will employ a fanitor to keep the buildings and grounds in order to the direction and to the satisfaction of the Building Superintendent. Adopted.

Unon motion of M. Pitman the application of Prof. Search for leave of absence was granted.

The report of the Committee on Rules and Regulations as approved by the committee of the whole was adopted, and the clerk was directed to have 1000 copies of the new rules printed for distribution.

The special-committee on the Fourth of July celebration recommended that those interested in the matter be permitted to visit the schools for the purpose of obtaining recruits for the parade, provided no great encroachments were made upon the school hours, and that all assistance rendered by teachers and children chould be entirely voluntary. Adopted.

Upon motion of Mr. Garland it was ordered that the Normal model school close with the other schools on June 7 next, circulars to the effect that it would be kept of the parade and the clerk what, if any, acti

Upon motion of Mr. Pitman the matter of the bids for school sites was ordered re-ferred to the committee of the whole, and the board then adjourned.

AT THE COURTHOUSE. The Courts. AND COL. B. DUNCAN, "HE PAYS THE COSTS."

B. Duncan, the erstwhile seer and allaround prophet of the evil eye is dis-tinctly dissatisfied with having to pay the costs incurred in his recent sult brought against the Times-Mirror Co. He the costs incurred in his recent still brought against the Times-Mirror Co. He appeared in Department Three, before Judge York, yesterday morning, and entered a motion for the reduction and retaxing of the costs in the suit mentioned. The costs amounted to $290.75, and from this amount the "colonel" wishes to have taken the fees paid several witnesses in the case, among them I. H. Le Veen, who has long been Duncan's thorn in the fiesh, and K. H. Wade, J. A. Muir and J. M. McManon whose testimony was contended to have not been at all pertinent. In addition to this he objected to the payment of $100 attorney's fees.

Judge York, after listening to the exprophet, denied the motion for a reduction with the exception of an item for the making of a transcript, amounting to $5, which was ordered stricken out. Duncan, "he pays the costs."

Bobs Up Again.

ANOTHER "COLONEL" WITH A LIT-TLE GRIEVANCE. "Col." John Bradbury does not wish to have it understood that his verious pleasure trips are undertaken for the purpose of "great estentation and show."

In the suit recently commenced against "Col." John by his coachman, Astriano Ceampo, who asis for damages amounting to $25,000 by reason of injuries he sustained during the overturning of a coach driven by the colonel, the complaint included the words, describing the trip as one undertaken "for pleasure, recreation, great ostentation and show."

To this wording the colonel strenuously objects and his counsel will endeavor to have it stricken out or changed. Mr. Bradbury's absence will not interfere with the progress of the case as he was served with the papers before his departure. Thirty days' extension of time has been granted the defense in which to answer the complaints, but J. Marion Brooks, attorney for Ocampo, purposes making an application to have the order reschied in order that no further delay may impede the progress of the trial.

A Lawyer's Fee. WIDOW SUED FOR TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS.

J. Marion Brooks, the attorney, yesterday filed papers in a suit against Mrs. Mary Thaw to recover a fee of $10,000 and $1810 in money, which he claims to have expended in the nurder trial of Samuel C. Smith, who was tried in the United States District Court, December 11, 1893.

Smith, who was charged with the murder of a young boy on the high seas, off the coast of San Diego, was defended by Attorney Brooks in the trial. It is ntated in the complaint of Brooks that he was employed by Mrs. Mary Thaw to act as counsel for Capt. Smith, who was her cousin, and that in his management of the case he expended money to the amount of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as and the state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as a state of $1810, in addition to his work as and the state of $1810

The Mrs. Thaw mentioned is the widow of William Thaw, a railroad builder of Pittsburgh, who at his death left his widow his entire property of many millions. Mrs. Thaw's maiden name was Mary Copely. She is a first cousin of Capt. Smith.

Not Guilty. FITZPATRICK IS ACQUITTED OF THE MURDER CHARGE.

MURDER CHARGE.

It took the jury in the Fitzpatrick murder case about twenty minutes yesterday to decide that William Fitzpatrick was not the man who so brutally murdered P. E. Newton in Pasadena last February.

Argument in the case was resumed yesterday morning before Judge Shaw, by Attorney Hunsaker for the defense, and Deputy District Attorney Williams for the State. At the conclusion of the speeches of these gentlemen the jury took the case, to return the verdict of not guilty.

Very Thin Blood.

While the popular supposition is that blood is chicker than water, that in the veins of some people may be sized up as a little bit thinner than the thinnest of soup.

Manuel Domingues, a Mexican, and a very decent appearing one, was yesterday arraigned before Judge Smith and his trial set for the 15th of June. Manuel is scharged with assault with a deadly weapon and his bond was fixed at $2000. At the time of his preliminary examination the name of Manuel's sister was on the bond for the greater portion of this, but yesterday she gently but firmly withdrew her signature from the bond, and the weeping Manuel was led to jail.

Maj. Horace Bell, who is Manuel's attorney, hinted that the withdrawal of the girl's signature was due to some chastisement which her brother Manuel had inflicted upon her for alleged immoralities, and which she was now avenging by allowing her brother to languish in jail.

Supposed to be Insane.

Angeless for the past several years and who is under arrest upon a charge of forging the memo of Julige Van lyke to a legal paper, was brought before Justice Young yesterday, who heard the evidence in the case.

Robbed His Friend.

William Stevens, who is accused of hav-ing juggled his friend, Robert Hicks, out of $10 in gold, was brought before Judge Smith yesterday in Department One to an-

Smith yesterday in Department One to answer for his crime.

From the evidence it appears that Stevens, Hicks and Cleary were a trio of drunks in Pomena on a certain night, Hicks being the moneyed man of the concern, possessing the sum of $10. This was sufficient to arouse the cupidity of Stevens, who, under pretense of caring for Hicks and his money, abstracted the $10, and has neglected to return it.

Cleary was concerned with him in the crime, but turned State's evidences yesterday and saved himself by so doing.

The case is being tried before a jury, and will be continued this morning.

New Suits Filed.

Papers for the following suits were yesterday filed with the County Cleirk.

James Barrell vs. Lakeview Land. Company, to recover $2250 on a note.

James Barrell vs. L. P. Hansen, to recover judgment for $1003.40 on a note.

S. W. Waring vs. George T. Insley and the Los Angeles Terminal Rallway Company. Waring brings suit to recover $1500 which he asks as damages from Insley for having him arrested on December 22, 1894, without warrant or charge of any sort, and for false imorisonment by having him confined for several days in the City Jail, on the charge of having held up E. H. Hall and robbing him of $65, being the property of the Terminal Railway Company.

The youngest child, aged 2 years, was teething, and was affing and freful, as children eften are at that period. Mrs. Townley felt no particular alarm, as both the other children had been sick in the same way while teething, and did not know how sick the child was until ti died. She undoubtedly was in distress for money, but appealed to no one, so that until the death of the child the nearest neighbors were ignorant of the fact that the family needed help. They came in at once when the need was known, and brought supplies of food.

The house was clean and comfortable. There was a carpet on the floor, a sewing machine, gasoline stove, comfortable beds, with sufficient bedding, and many little comforts. The whole appearance of the place carried out the information that Mr. Townley is a sober, hard-working man, and endeavors by every means in his power to keep his family as well as others in their station. The two little boys were fat, sturdy children, neatly clad, and showing no signs of suffering, and the whole appearance of the house and family gave every indication of temporary distress, rather than long-continued destitution.

A prominent railway freight official of this city, familiar with things at footh ends of the line, eavy there is going to be quite a big business in potatoes this season. With the exception of Western Texas, Arizons, New Mexico and the southern Portion of Colorado, the demand for Southern California potatoes has been, up to the present year, confined to local consumption. The late frests in Tennessee and the northern portion of Mississippi have changed all that, with the result that Bastern and Western markets that have hitherto relied on those States for their supplies, have thad to turn their faces this year toward the land of the setting sun. There is one fact to be noted in connection with the potato crop of Southern California. It is that the great bulk of its all raised within a distance not exceeding five miles 'rom the limits of Los Angeles city.' A girdly quantity is raised in the neighborhood of Cucamonga, but the years bulk of shippments are made from stators within a day May Los Angeles. rest bulk of shipments are made from stavast bulk of shipments are made from sta-ions within a few miles of Los Angelea. OREGON SHORT LINE CASE.

ST. PAUL, May 27.—The application of the Oregon Short Line and Utah Nogthern for a separate receivership and the payment of overdue interest coupons on prior liens came up today in the United States Court of this city. The arguments were not concluded at the noon recess.

The receivers of the Union Pacific read presented a report of the amounts applicable to pay first-mortgage interest of the Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern road in order that the road might be turned over to the receiver appointed under foreclosure of the second mortgage. The forenoon was devoted to a discussion of the points of the printed reports made by the receivers, no result being reached before recess.

This afternoon there was a long argument over the situation. The receivers of the Union Pacific said that the transfer of the Oregon Short Line and the issuance of certificates at 95, ruaning at 6 per cent, meant that the present interest of 6 per cent, would be increased to 8½ per cent, and that the court would, under the ciprumstances, make the order of transfer. Judge Sanborn said he should make no order of reference to the issuance of certificates in the recolore made by Judge Gilbert of Oregon.

From the report the following extracts are taken as indicating the situation:

"Be do hereby report and certify our estimate that the net surplus earnings of the Oregon Short Line Railway Company to said John F. Dillow, as trustee, will be on the first day of June, 1895, $228,922.05. Short Line and Utah Northern Railway Company, meaning thereby the net surplus earnings of the entire property of that company considered as a system, will be on the first day of June, 1895, $228,922.05. Short Line and Utah Northern Railway Company, meaning thereby the net surplus earnings of the entire property of that company considered as a system, will be on the first day of June, 1895, $228,922.05. Short Line and Utah Northern has surplus earnings and that it appears from this statement that the respective surplus and deficiencles as of the first of June, 1895, are as Indives:

"Estimated surplus Oregon Short Line division, $228,922.06; estimated surplus Utah and Northern division, $553,598.86; estimated deficit Utah Southern, first and general mortgage division, $96,163.87; estimated deficiency Utah Southern extension mortgage division, $37,200,22; estimated surplus Oregon Short line and Utah Northern, consolidated mortgage division, $23,247.06; total, $637,243.66.

The receivers respectfully submit that vision, $23,247.06; total, $637,243.66. The receivers respectfully submit that before the railway property, now in their hands, should be permitted to pass from the jurisdiction of this court provision should be made for the payment of said claim of J. P. Morgan & Co., for compensation for the use of the thirty-seven locomotives, and that this obligation should be considered before determining that any part of the surplus carriage, appearing that any motives, and that this obligation should be considered before determining that any part of the surplus earnings appearing to be in their hands on the said first day of June, 1885, can be considered to be properly applicable to the payment of the interest on any of the bonds secured by mortgages covering the said property of the Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern Railway Company or any part of the same."

DEPOT BURNED. DEPOT BURNED.

PRESCOTT (Ariz...) May 27.—Fire this afternoon destroyed the Prescott and Arizona Central Railroad depot, old freighthouse and platform, one locomotive and two passenger coaches. The road was abandoned in October, 1893, and the engine and two passenger coaches left standing on the track in front of the depot at the time have been allowed to remain ever since. The depot was converted into a residence and has been occupied as such ever since. The fire today started in this building and the high wind blowing at the time communicated to the train and other buildings adjoining. The origin of the fire is not known. The loss is several thousand dollars, with no insurance.

LOS ANGELES (Cal.) May 15, 1877.

I, John G. Downey, of the city and county of Los Angeles, and State of California, being of sound and disposing mind, do make the following will and last testament: First, I will and bequeath to my beloved wife, Mary J. Guirado, the house and appurtenances where we now live, with all furniture, silver, carriages, horses, cows and utensils, and also the adjoining house and lot on the south, known as the Hunter place. In addition I will and bequeath to her one-half of all the balance of my property of whatever kind and nature, subject to the payment of her one-half proportion of my debts, expenses of administration, etc. To my sisters, Eleanor Martin, Annie Donahue, Winefred Martin, and John Downey Harvey, I will and bequeath the other one-half of my property in equal proportions, subject to their pro rata in paying my debts and the bequests hereinafter provided for. My real estate shall not be sold until J. Downey Harvey attains the age of 40 years, in the case of the death of J. Downey Harvey without heirs, or the death of Winefred Martin or Annie Donahue without heirs, the property hereby bequested them shall revert to Eleanor Martin and her heirs. Some mystery is thrown over the will
by the statement of D. O. McCarthy quarters a strong suspicion that a later

Charge.

A burglary which occurred April 15 was yesterday cleared up by Detectives Auble and Hawley, who arrested an old man named D. Van Horn on the charge of having committed the crime. Van Horn was a roomer at the house of Mrs. Dayton on East Second street, and on the day mentioned, it is alleged, he took advantage of Mrs. Dayton's absence from home by robbing the house. He left the city a few hours afterward, and, on returning a month later, reported to the police that he had been robbed of $500 at a house where he was rooming. The detectives recognized him at once as the men who was suspected of having committed the Dayton burglary and placed him under arrest. They searched his trunk and found in it a portion of the stolen property which consisted principally of jewelry and silverware. Van Horn pleaded innocence, but could not explain how Mrs. Dayton's valuables got into his trunk.

Livingston wrote back to Mr. Cook that California was a good place to speculate in real estate. Cook, acting on Livingston's suggestion, sent him a draft for $275 and subsequently additional sums. Livingston bought property in his own name with the money. Cook came here three months ago to see about it, and asked where his property was. Livingston said the would have to settle with his wife first. After three months' wrangling over the matter, Livingston paid back all the money except a note for $100.

He declares they continually run away from home and he and Mrs. Powers are powerless to do anything with them. Yesterday he put a chain and padlock on the leg of one of them, and thought he had him secure, but the lad managed to get the chain loose from its staple and escaped, with chain, padiock and all. Mr. Powers started out last night in search of the boys, but fell by the wayside, after visiting several grogshops and got run in by Officer Sparks for disturbing the peace.

"You may have it for a quarter, and that's cheap."

"I'll take it, Fred."

"Where's your money?"

"Here—cash down," and Paul handed out a silver quarter, taking in exchange a nice new knife.

Now this appeared to be a very fair, simple transaction, as both boys were satisfied with the trade. But there is a shadow to the pleture—the quarter did not belong to Paul Wallace, and he had no right to give it to Fred. He did not steal it—at least he did not mean to steal it. It was part of the money with which Mr. Rathbone had instructed him to purchase a ribbon and some paper for use on a tynewiter. He had given it if the

Mr. Rathbone had instructed him to purchase a ribbon and some peper for use on a typewriter. He had given it to Paul partly in silver, a half and two quarters, and the rest in a bill, as the purchase came to exactly $3.

So Paul "just borrowed" one of the quarters without the knowledge or consent of its owner. He intended to run back home and get a half dollar which he had in his bureau drawer, and use half of it in making Mr. Rathbone's purchase. He hastened home, got his own coin, and then went to the store to make his purchase. He gave the clerk his own half dollar and Mr. Rathbone's, keeping the other quarter, when the clerk exclaimed:

"Hold on, fad, one of these half dollars is a counterfeit!" and he returned to Paul not Mr. Rachbone's shiny new coin, but the one taken from the bureau drawer. "I'm sorry," added the clerk, civilly, "that I can't take it. Better go back and get another. I'll keep your package ready for you."

Here was a quandary. What could he

Here was a quandary. What could he do? His father and mother had gone away for the day, and would not be home until supper time. Of course, he could go and ask Uncle John for it, but then Uncle John was so terribly particular about money matters that he would be sure to tell Paul that he had no business to have meddled with Mr. Rathbone's money.

Thus the boy reasoned with himself, and at last came to the wise conclusion that he would swallow his pride and go directly to Mr. Rathbore and tell the whole story, asking pardon for his unintentional transferession.

to Mr. Rathbone and tell the whole story, asking pardon for his unintentional transgression.

Mr. Rathbone heard him quietly to the end, and then said, impressively: "Paul, I am almost glad that this thing happened, for it may be a warning, and save you from the penitentiary."

"The penitentiary! O Mr. Rathbone, you don't think I meant—"

"To steal! No. indeed, my boy, I am sure you did not! But let me tell you a sad story, one of which I rarely speak. I once had an only brother, who was a very intellectual man, very upright and highly respected. For years he was agent and treasurer for a large firm, and had the care of large sums of money. At last there came a terrible shock to us. He was suspected of dishonesty, and when arrested confessed his guilt. He had borrowed a rather small sum of money—one which he could easily replace, if lost—in order to speculate. He was successful. He borrowed more and more, and at last lost so heavily that he could not square his accounts. He died in prison, sentenced for dishonesty, yet he never meant to steal. O Paul, be careful, be careful! It is the first step which counts. There is danger in the beginning of evil, for God only can tell where a little sin' may lead us.

Hundred Miles Out at Sea.

(Washington Star:) "The most powerful light in the world is now being set up on Fire Island, off New York city," said an officer of the lighthouse board to a reporter for the Star. "It will be ready for business by July 1 next. To ships it will be visible 100 miles out at sea. I do not mean that the light itself will be heen at that distance, for that would be impossible, owing to the curvature of the earth, but the flash on the clouds in the sky will be discerned. In other words, from the point of view of the watchful skipper so far from there an intermittent glare will be observed, as if lightning were to show in the same quarter of the heavens at regular intervals of five seconds. Passengers on transatlantic steamers will thus receive a cheering signal of their approach to America.

"The light will be electric, having a power of 50,000,000 candies, without the lens. The lens, which was made in Paris, is of enormous size—about ten feet in diameter. It will increase the power to 250,000,000 candies. It is called a bivalve lens, being in two halves, like the shells of an oyzeer. The convex halves are sepurated by a distance sufficient to admit the body of a man, so that the carbons and other apparatus between them may be got at. This double lens and the whole mechanical contrivance supporting it reets in a circular trough filled with mercury. In fact, its entire weight rests upon the highid quickeliver, so that it may be revolved almost without friction. Ordinarily brass wheels are used for revolving lights in lighthouses.

It used to cost $10,000 per annum, but we have cut off the electric search lights, which formerly were employed to throw a light upon the statue and illuminate it. Liberty might be of some value for lighthouse purposes if she had been placed on the Romer Shosis, which would have afforded a more suitable location any way."

The white-eyebrowed or spectacled laughing-thrush, has a loud, powerful song and some melodious notes. He is sometimes called the greater Peking nightingale or Japanese mocking-bird.

The Japanese mocking-bird.

The Japanese robin is a pretty bird to look at, and very lively in his motions, but is overrated as a singer, his notes resembling our Baltimore orloide's, only shriller, with little variation.

Australia has the piping crow, which is more of a shrieks than a true crow. His song is rich and varied, the notes resembling a flute. He can be taught to speak and imitate many birds as well.

From Africa are shipped large numbers of little birds to this country called African singing finches. The plumage is handsome, and often very odd. They lack voice, only one, the strawberry flach, having a song of any power. They are cunning, however, and pretty to have in any aviary. A gentleman in New York has a cage containing some thirty-five varieties of small birds, and among them many African finches. As one of the canaries sings a small finch will fly to his side, and, placing his head against the singer's breast, listen closely until take all the third same happy family, will take all the third same happy family, will take all the twork down the side of the cage and out on the perches. His owner says that if he would give him enough material the bird would weave until he shut out the day-tight.

(New York Recorder:) If a woman wer to make a deliberate list of all the thing she knows she will have to dodge ever time she pedestrianizes on the streets New York; it would appal her and—p

she has to dodge the ferrules of coun right to ride down, over, or upon any impediments.

She has to dodge vans, trucks, big dogs, little dogs, fire trucks and cable cars. A conjunction of the last two disconcerts her slightly, but only temporarily. She finds nerve for it all.

Women are promised wings in the next world. Conditionally, of course. The utility of them where everything is serene and all friction surmounted may be questioned, but I never see one of them forging down street in face of the difficulties catalogued above that I don't think how convenient a pair of wings would be, just to lift one a little higher than the highest wans. But then the women, would get their wings all tangled up and make the feathers fly. So I guess she will have to content herself with being the artful dodger she is.

Duel Statistics in Italy.

(London Exchange:) An Italian "man of figures" has taken the trouble to ascertain to what extent his country has contributed, during the last ten years, toward the increase in the army of duelists. The following figures are the result of his researches: "From 1884 to 1894 no less than 946 duels were fought in Italy over newspaper controversies, 730 by rival lovers, 377 over political questions, 289 for insults, 183 for private reasons, and 19 over gambling quarrels. In 79 cases the cause of the duel was unknown. Journalists and officers in Italy are first among duelists. Of the 538 duels fought in 1894, 186 were fought by journalists and 185 by officers of the army. Of dueling lawyers there were 64, students 63, professors 22, depties 14, engineers and architects 13, servants 6, and bankers 3.

A Valuable Recipe for Repairing As phalt Highways—The Camera for Reproducing the Old Masters.

of the difficulties in repairing an One or far anneating to make a good joint asphalt payenent is to make a good joint without leaving an elevation or a depression in the street surface. The ordinary way of making such a patch is to cut out a piece of the old pavement and fill the hole with tresh asphalt, which is then tamped and rolled. More often than not, the junction of the old and the new matethe junction of the order and a ridge of cross-of disintegrating material is left. To remedy this frequent source of badly main-tained paying, a surface heater has been designed consisting of a portable tank condesigned consisting of a portable tank con-taining gasoline, mounted on wheels and provided with suitable pump and burners. The method of operation is to place the heater over the space to be repaired and on the heat. Soon the entire surface of the pavement under the "hood" of the heater is softened by the heat, so that the top can be removed with a hoe. Only sufficient of the old material is taken off to secure a clean, new surface for the application of the fresh isphalt. The ure of the burner leaves the old asphalt soft, and hot, so that the new material welds perfectly with it. Try the employment of this method, it is necessary to remove simply the d'aintegratich portion of the old asphalt, say, from one half then to one inch, so that not only is less new material used, but the thin coading is more easily rolled and tamped, and less likely to leave inequalities of surface.

REPRODUCING THE OLD MASTERS BY REPRODUCING THE OLD MASTERS BY

CAMERA. It would seem that before long a man will have to be very exacting to need to go outside of his own door for amusement and entertainment. If a home concert in tastes, from Wagner to the latest street ditty, and lovers of the superb vocalisation of Melba or the De Reskes, can order special cylinders, and encore their favorties for a whole evening if they wish. The city sportsman who has been unable to leave his office in the afternoon, can follow in the kinetograph in the evening the whole of the day's suburban racing, from start to finish, and in the same way the retired atifiete can solace his declining years by reproducing the arena triumphs of his palmy days. To these home resources is now added the reproduction of the pictures of the old masters in lantern silides. A young woman has conern slides. A young woman has con-eived the idea of making the camera add ceived the idea of making the camera add in a new way to the urtistic pleasures of those whose opportunities of travel are limited, or whose means do not admit of their possessing the masterpleces of the world's collection of paintings. Fraulein Stolle, a German resident in this country, a devotee of art and an indefatigable amsteur photographer, bethought her that if landscapes could be faithfully reproduced by the aid of painted photographic lantern aiddes, the same could be done for the great paintings of the world. She went at once to Europe, taught herself the art of slide coloring, which she could find no noe in this country or in Berlin or Paris at once to Europe, taught herself the art of slide coloring, which she could find no one in this country or in Berlin or Paris able to teach her in connection with pletures, and even made her own colors for painting the slides, none suitable being obtainable. Eventually she succeeded in making a collection of third photographs of the most famous pictures in Europe. The pictures were first photographed upon glass, and then painted under a microscope. The necessity for this extreme minuteness arises from the fact that every detail has to be so perfect that the enlargement of many feet upon the screen will disclose no coarseness of handling. The coloring is done before the originals in each case, by a long, slow and laborious process. Colored photographs have nothing in common with this new development in picture photography. The individuality of the process lies in the skillful microscopic painting, and its value consists in its accurate reproduction of the form, perspective, and coloring of the original.

GULL FARMING.

GULL FARMING.

A novel industry is conducted by an old bayman of the south coast of Long Island. He devotes some months of the year to the farming of seagulls, and manages to make a very good living out of it. Fashion decreed that gulls' wings should be the prevailing adornment for women's hats, and the price of a pair of wings ran up to 30 cents. The bay men at once turned themselves into gull hunters, almost to the neglect of the wild ducks and geese that formerly gave them a livelihood. There wan more money in killing gulls than any other birds, for a man could bag several hundred in a day. Naturally, the supply soon ran out, and the old bay man, Fritz Gritman, saw his opportunity. Gulls do not sit on their eggs, but leave them on the beach and let the sun and warm sand hatch them. Gritman collected all the eggs he could find and placed them in little round holes in the wand near his hut. When hatched out the vous hirds warm. eags he could find and placed them in littier round holes in the sand near his hut.
When hatched out the young birds were comfined within strong, large-meshed wire netting. This kept off the old old gulls, but did not prevent their feeding the young birds with fish, which they would drop to them from above. In this way the little gulls were reared without any labor.
When the birds are large enough to fly they are turned out; but they are attached to the place, and, although they leave in the autumn, they always come back in the spring. They usually get all the fish they need, but when the food supply runs short. Gritman hauls his net around the bay, throws the small fish of his catch to the gulls, and sends the large ones in lee to market. The value of a pair of young gull's wings is now about large ones in ice to market. The value of a pair of young guil's wings is now about 50 cents, and their breast feathers are better liked than duck feathers for fine pfilows. The strangest point about this singular industry is that many of the guils are sold for trap-shooting, for which many gunners prefer them to pigeons. They guners prefer them to pigeons. They green and to get up quicker and fly more ranidly from the trap. Orders are placed early in the season by the shooting clubs on the island, and the birds are duly shipped in boxes.

MUSICAL REGISTRATION.

MUSICAL REGISTRATION. A little machine has made its advent, which may trench on the jealously-guarded privileges of the musical critic. which may trench on the jealously-guarded privileges of the musical critic. Musical critics are proverbially unreliable, and their verdict is apt to be colored by dyspepsia or many other influences outside the region of art, but the new machine, which is an automatic critic, tells not only the truth, but the whole truth. It is a piece of mechanism which registers visibly and with the truth certainty the manner in which a piece has been played on the piano. On a piece of paper a record is made of the entire performance, the duration of the notes, the rapidity of attack, the variations in touch, legato, staccato, crescendo, diminuendo, and everything indicative of the derree of musical execution and expression that has been attained. The apparatus, which is an adaptation of the phonograph, can easily be applied to any piano. A rutta percha tube is placed beneath the keys, and its extremities are in communication with the registering cylinder. To this is attached an inked stylus, which makes its impressions upon a hand of piper drawn along at a regular rate by the provided of the left hand is laggard or weak, the tale is told, and all the faise notes are taithfully set down. When the provide compare his rendering with that of other artists or with previous performances of his cwn. The ear. in fact, is surpassed and superseded. This aparatus points to the time when the newspaper musical criticisms of public per-formances will assume both the appearance and unanimity of meteorological charts. GRIEF AS A DISEASE. A medical au-and unanimity of meteorological charts.

GRIBF AS A DISEASE. A medical authority says that grief is a disease, and must be treated as such. It cannot be ignored, neither can it be consoled away. It must be accepted, and allowed to wear itself out. As a rule, readjustment comes slowly? Sorrow, grief and the emotion caused by all great misfortunes should be regarded as akin to acute infectious diseases, which they resemble in result; and later, as convalescence from such diseases. In this class of illness, seclusion, rest, sleep, appropriate food, fresh air, sunshine and interests that tax neither mind nor body, are required. After extreme sorrow, the nervous system needs, above everything, complete rest. The poison of grief is more than a name. To urge work, study, travel, the value search for amusements, is both useless and dangerous. For a time the whole organism is overthrown, and the temporary seclusion is imperative for proper readjustment. Recent medical observations show that the physical results of depressing emotions are similar to those caused by bodily accidents, fatigue, chill, partial starvation and loss of blood. Birds, moles and dogs, which apparently died in consequence of capture, and from conditions that correspond in human beings to acute mostalgla and "broken heart," were examined after death as to the conditions that the nutrition of the tissuey had been interfered with, and the substance proper of various vital organs had undergone the same kind of degeneration as the series of infectious disease.

FIRE DRILL IN SCHOOLS.

J. C. Brookes lays great force on the necessity of thorough fire drills in schools. He trains his pupils to understand that, so far as chey are concerned, the danger, in case of fire, is nearly all in the scare of becoming excited. He tells them that the alarm will be given them often when there is no fire or danger; but that whenever they hear this alarm they should leave the building as predirected. His method is as follows: Suppose that a building is constructed on the hall plan, and that half the pupils are in the classrooms. The alarm is given; the teacher nearest the platform in the school hall runs to the pisno or harmonium and takes her seat. A chord is struck, the signal for every scholar to rise; smother chord and they turn in the proper direction. A quickstep march is struck up, the pupils from class-rooms come out with a run, falling into their respective places. Another chord is struck, they all rise; a second signal and they turn to go; again a lively march, and they start for their allotted places of exit. As two rows come fogether at the end of an alsie, the pupils grasp hands two and two, and on they go. Should they have to go down a flight of stairs they help each other by holding hands. Should one stumble or start to fall the other will hold him. The teachers leave the buildings with the pupils, scattered along the lines. Neither teachers nor pupils know when the alarm is to be given, nor do they know that it is for drill simply. They will not know until they are out and safe. This drill is very valuable, not only in training children how to act in case of fire but as a system of discipline.

ARIZONA EDITORIALS (Tombstone Prospector:) The days of the land grant in Arizona are numbered and soon this fair fand will be rid of the curse.

enix Gazette:) The legal fraternity

(Phoenix Gazeite:) The legal fraternity say that the judges have no legal right to draw $600 from the Territorial treasury, that the law under which they claim the right has been repealed nine years ago. The Gazette thinks the judges are justly entitled to a salary from the Territory of at least $1000 per annum, but we dishike to see them violate the law to receive the pailry sum of $600.

(Phoenix Herald:) The railroads are providing for excursions to the seacoust and the people of this section of country are likely to have greater inducements offered than ever before. The Southern Pacific people aiready announce a rate of a few cents over $25 for the round trip, Phoenix to Santa Monica and return, the ticket good for sixty days. The Santa Fe people are advertising nearly as good rates at Los Angeles for excursion tickets, Los Angeles to Phoenix, by way of Ach Fork, and return to that city. The Los Angeles people and in fact the people all along the coast of Southern California have discovered that it is a good business proposition. ered that it is a good business pro to cultivate the acquaintance of Arizona

(Tucson Star:) The Governor's veto of the Wolfley $7000 appropriation passed by a Republican Legislature in vicilation of law, and his veto of the Contempt Bill, which proposed to destroy the power of the courts to protect themselves against libel, slander and anarchy, appears to play an important part in certain lavestigations now in progress at Phoenix. Gov. Hughes has made a record on this measure.

(Phoenix Republican:) The East will have to send a lot of money to the West this year to pay for its fruit. Arizona will, this season, begin to figure as a fruit shipper, and, indeed, will give California shipper, and, indeed, will give California desperate competition. As it is there is going to be an immense crop of apricots, pears and grapes. The supply of peaches will also be large. Apricots are now in the market.

(Globe Belt:) Certainly the times were never more favorable than the present for a disastrous Indian outbreak. The relinquishment of San Carlos as an important post, following the abandonment of Forts Thomas and Bowle, has left a military force in Southern Arizona ridiculpusity inadequate to cope with hostile Indians in the event of a revolt, which the government has invited by the niggardly treatment of its red wards.

A President Aloof from the People.

A President Aloof from the People.

(Washington Post.) "President Cleveland is the most exclusive man who ever occupied the White House," said an old Washingtonian. "He rarely ever shows himself to the people out of doors and then it is by accident, and perhaps on the road between the city and his country place. He never walks. Now he is being wheeled about in a chair."

Gen. Grant, both as general of the army and as President, used to stroll abbut town unattended. I used to meet him walking alone on Pensylvania avenue almost daily. No detectives dogged his footetps. He rode in the street cars like any other citizen. Andrew Johnson, before him, did the same thing, without fear of insult or molestation. And yet the whole country was alive with the bitterness of a late civil war and the extreme tension of reconstruction permeated the public mind. Hayes was frequently abroad on foot alone, or attended by some personal friend, or by his wife, and was always accessible to those who wished to see him. President Johnson removed the military guard from the White House doors against the protests of his friends. And they were never replaced.

tests of his friends. And they were never replaced.

Even Mr. Lincoln, overwhelmed as he was with the responsibilities of war, and beset on every hand by office-seekers, was more early and more often seen than is President Cleveland. Our modern Democratic President holds himself aloof from all contact with the people and shields his person from the vuigar eye. When he travels, it is by special, mysteriously, and under guard, as if he were in Russia, and his brow were oppressed by a crown.

Little Frankle Baird, the three and one-haff-year-old son of George Baird, strayed away from his home at No. 447 Carolina street yesterday morning, and went abroad to see the town. His parents missed him about 10 a.m., and scoured the entire neighborhood in search of their offspring.

They inquired at the police station and neighborhood in search of their offspring. They inquired at the police station, and left a description of the child. Late in the afternoon Sergt. McKeag found the little wanderer in East Los angeles, and brought him over. The parents were notified, and the father soon came to claim the lost boy and conveyed him home to his mother, who was almost prostrated. The little fellow traveled at least three miles through the railroad district, and the wonder is that he was not run over by the cars.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT ON THE MT. WILSON TRAIL

The Programme Arranged by Deco ration-day Committee—Hoodlum Element on the Increase in the City-Brevities.

PASADENA, May 27.—(Special Correspondence.) The early completion of the Southern Pacific road to Pasadena is becoming each day more apparent, and it will not be many days before the roadbed will be prepared for the tles and rails, as the workmen are siready working north of Raymond Hill, and, with sixteen teams and twenty-eight men, the progress of the work of grading & rapid. The camp of the graders is now pitched opposite Raymond Station, and the camp of the track-layers is but a mile and a half behind them. It is shought by the contractors that ten days will see the roadbed in good shape for the tracking to Colbed in good shape for one tracking to Con-orado street and Broadway, where the depot will probably be built. No steps toward erecting the depot have yet been taken, and $1.00 thought by those in a position to know that it will not be constructed until the company has its track ready, and is able to bring here its own material for the purpose.

A VOICE FROM SYRIA.

Mr. Shehadi, a young Syrian of remarkable grace of person and fluency of expression, addressed a targe audience drawn from the various city congregations. Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church, upon the condition of Christianity in his native land. The lecturer was dressed in the Syrian costume, the kaftan of white silk shot with crimson and blue, a yellow and white silk gown and white bournous. He told his hearers of the social, religious and political condition of his native land, and gave a graphic picture of the intellectual progress of his people in the last fifty years. After the lecture proper, a number of questions was put to Mr. Sheadd, all of which were answered and some curious and interesting information elicited. The costume of the women of Syria was illustrated by a young lady, an American, who was dressed in the garments worn by Syrian women. A VOICE FROM SYRIA.

Saturday evening as J. W. Hugus was returning from Camp Martin, Mt. Wilson, and was near the foot of the trail, he and was near the foot of the trail, he met with a painful acident. He had been proceeding for some time on foot, to rest himself from saddle-weariness, and attempted to mount his horse, when the animal shied and threw him in such a way that he fell over the edge of the hank to the ground some fifteen feet below. Some men who witnessed the accident hastened to his sametance, and he was conveyed to his home in a carriage. No serious injuries have developed, but he was badly shaken up, was somewhat syrained in the muscles of his back, and dislocated his thumb. Dr Macomber, his physician, thinks he will be about again in a few days.

DECORATION DAY.

The committee in charge of Decoration-day exercises is arranging an excellent programme to be rendered Thursday evening at the Tabernacie. A large number of school children will probably participate in the parade, and each of them will be supplied with a small American flag. The local military organization will sail take part in the exercises, and the citizens are called upon to furnish flowers therally for the decoration. The flowers must be sent to G. A. R. Hall not later than 9 o'clock Thursday morning, and as the foggy weather and the army-worms together have made large inroads upon Pasadena flowers, there is a fear that there will be a scarcity for Decoration day. The evening programme promises to be most interesting, Gen. Campbell having been invited to deliver the oration.

The Truit-growers' Association of Pasadena has shipped forty-seven carleads of oranges this season, and have orders for from eight to ten carloads of seedlings, and from six to eight cars of Mediterranean sweets. At present there is nothing being done as the Eastern market is so demoralized that it is thought better to walt for brighter prospects. The Deciouous Fruit-growers' Association has yet a large quantity of dried fruit on hand as the markets have not been up to their expectations.

The small boy of Pasadena has been considerably in evidence of late. He has figured as burglar, sneak thief, bold marauder and general nuisance, and another "of him," in the person of W. Atkins, was arrested this afternoon charged with disturbing the peace of the neighborhood where he lives, by profane and obscene language on Sunday afternoon. The street as a school of crime, is graduating some pupils at a tender age, and the hoodlum element is on the increase bere.

The usual Monday repentance, following the Sunday jag, was before Recorder Rossiter this morning in the person of Robert Shaw, who came to Pasadena Sunday from Redondo, so elevated by the "ocean air" that he was secluded from the rough gules of Pasadena in the lodging usually given to such elated individuals. In consideration of the fact that it was "the first offense," Recorder Rossiter imposed a fine of $10, which was paid.

Gus Algern-Sunday at the Beach

Other Notes.
SANTA MONICA; May 27.—(Special Correspondence,) Gus Algern, who was Correspondence.) Gus Algern, who was convicted last fall in the Federal Court of convicted last fall in the Federal Court of opium smuggling, has completed his sentence of six months in the County Jail and on Monday returned to his home in the canyon. He expressed himself as more than convinced of the folly of running amuck of Uncle Sam and his revenue laws. Algern was undoubtly ignorant of the consequences likely to follow his injudicious conduct, and is not likely to be entrapped into a repetition of the experiment.

judicious conduct, and is not likely to be entrapped into a repetition of the experiment.

Sunday was a beautiful day here, and visitors came down from the city by trainloads. Others came other than hy rail, and of those one load of rather sporty young men from the Angel City undertook a job which proved too large for them. They acquired more or less of a jag, and started in to paint things. One of them slept in the cooler Sunday night, and two or three others were compelled to answer to disturbing the peace. Our officials have begun this season with a determination to keep things on a respectable basis, and young bloods who wish to play wild west engagements must head toward other points than this or take the consequences. For Sunday crowds, however, just wait a week.

The case of J. Murray, sent up by Justice Barackman some time ago for mailcious mischief, and under sentence of six months in the County Jail, has reached the Superior Court on appeal, and the reporters make rather merry over the severity of the punishment for the offense charged. The face of the record does Justice Barackman an injustice when taken in that light. The real offense committed by Murray was demolition of all the property in the town lockup. Under the statute this is a felony; but the officers, being in a lenient mood, made the complaint come within the jurisdiction of the Justice's court, and the prisoner was at the time very glad to plead guilty to the ome within the jurisdiction of the Justice's court, and the prisoner was at the time very glad to plead guilty to the charge with a full understanding that he would be given the limit, six months, and considered himself fortunate in not having to answer the penitentiary accusation.

Anita Salgado, step-daughter of Jo Lopez, who lives on Fifth street, is under accusation again of larceny. The child is about 12 years old, and has given the neighbors much annoyance for many months past. A whole washing left on the porch of George Bohn's residence on Sixth street disappeared Saturday evening, and was recovered from the possession of the child. Other pilferings have also been fastened upon her, and it is not improbable that she will be examined as a candidate for the Whittier institution.

The Joseph Russ cleared for San Fran-cisco Sunday morning, in ballast. The Fullerton Tribune says: "The Los Angeles gentlemen who are thinking of establishing a cannery at Fullerton, want $6000 bous-$3000 a year for two years. Our fruit-growers say this amount cannot be raised, but that they will give a bonus of $3500 to any one who will put in a plant with a capacity of 500 tons per season. The people must have a guarantee that the cannery will be operated for at least five years. One or two capitalists interested in the canning industry were here this week looking over the field. If arrangements cannot be made with outsiders our people should organize a co-operative company and establish the cannery themselves."

W. H. Bowers and C. E. Parker went up into Santiago Canyon Saturday evening for a wildcat hunt with a pack of trained hounds. They returned Sunday with two fine specimens of the feline wanderers of the wooded canyons. Both chases, they report, were very exciting, and the "catches" unusually so, the animals giving the whole pack of hounds a desperate fight. The game was brought to this city, and their hides will be tanned to be used for rugs as trophies of the occasion.

Jury Finds Charles Marshall Guilty

Jury Finds Charles Marshall Guilty of Murder.

RIVERSIDE May 27.—(Special Correspondence.) The people of this community are generally well pleased over the verdict of the jury in finding Charles Marshall "guilty of murder in the first degree" for the killing of Frank Hamilton, Aoril 8 last, and with the further fact that, in the absence of a recommendation for imprisonment for life, Marshall will explate his crime at the end of a repe.

That death will follow, there is but little, if any, doubt, as the prosecution under the management of Judge J. F. Crowe, tried the case very carefully and with as much leniency toward the accused as possible in the performance of duty, and Judge Noyes was scrupulously particular in seeing that no errors were made in the records of the court upon which to base a reversal by the Supreme Court of the verdict and sentence, which will follow in conformity therewith next Monday. To avoid any possibility of a new trial being granted the defendant on the ground that he was not granted a postponement because of a material witness for the defense being sick and unable to attend, and that the trial was ordered by the court to proceed, Judge Crowe sent out a warrant and had the said witness. McAllimer, brought in for the trial. When, during the trial, it was announced that the winess desired by the defense was in court, the defendant's attorneys announced that they did not want to put him on the stand, and Judge Noyes directed the court reporter to take these facts down. So that, taking everything into consideration, there seems to be little chance for Marshall's life, and particularly if Gov. Budd eitheres to his late declaration that if a fury of twelve men in a community where a crime has been committed finds the accused guilty, it is not for him to find otherwise.

There was one very important thing, which, if brought out in the trial, could not have failed to impress the minds of the jurors, and that was the reputation of the two men, but the prosecution chose rather to try the case o

as deputy sheriff, in which position he had been for a number of years. He was a valuable man in that section, as he knew every thief and other hard characters of the Cahuilla country and around about. While a quiet man, he was fearless, and would perform his duties faithfully at all hazards. The rough characters knew him but to dislike him. The general verdict of the people is that the verdict of the jury is a righteous o.e. Judge Crowe made an excellent plea for the State before the Jury, and deserves much credit for the able manner in which he conducted the prosecution.
